ONTARIO HEAT WAVE CUTS DOWN ON VOTING

TORONTO (UPI) — Early balloting ranged from light to medium in the Ontario general election today with the leaders of the three major parties voting shortly after the polls opened at 9 a.m. EDT.

The heat wave that covered the entire province threatens to keep many, especially older persons, away from the polls.

Harvey MacLaren, a 70-year-old Parkdale returning officer, was found dead of a heart attack early today at home. Friends blamed his death on the heat and over-excitement.

$1M RESEARCH FUND

Canada's Gift To Queen Will Mend Children

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government's gift to the Queen on the occasion of her visit this summer will be establishment of a $1,000,000 fund for research into children's diseases. Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

OUR PRESENT IS A SCROLL

Greater Victoria municipalities will give Queen Elizabeth an illuminated scroll of the address of welcome and loyalty she will receive at a civic ceremony in Beacon Hill Park July 17.

Possibility of a second gift to mark the occasion still is being discussed.

Meanwhile, Premier Bennett continues to keep the province's gift a secret—reportedly in an attempt to prevent any other province from duplicating the gift.

He said in the Commons that Her Majesty has signified that she will be happy if any provincial or municipal governments planning similar financial gifts contribute them to the same fund.

The fund will be known as the "Queen Elizabeth II Fund for Research into Children's Diseases," he said.

It will be used to provide financial aid to institutions and individuals in Canada doing research in this field.

SPECIAL INTEREST

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Queen has always shown a personal interest in and concern for the physical well-being of children.

As a result, the Canadian government had suggested that instead of some other gift to mark her visit, beginning in a week, it would establish a fund "to provide new hopes for Canadian children."

Opposition Leader Pearson described the gift as "most imaginative and constructive." "I am sure that the Queen will get a great deal more satisfaction in this than in another mink coat or piece of jewelry," he said.

Children in the future would have cause to remember the Queen's visit with even greater joy.

Mr. Pearson suggested that individuals might want to contribute to the fund as well as provinces and municipalities.

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, said "Canadians will welcome and support the prime minister's most appropriate announcement."

He was sure the Queen would get a great deal of personal satisfaction from the fund which would increase the hope and happiness of crippled children.

CENTRAL BANK INTEREST RATE HITS RECORD

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada interest rate increased again this week to an all-time high of 5.42 per cent, the central bank reported today.

The rate compared with 5.33 per cent last week and 5.15 two weeks ago. The all-time low of 1.12 per cent was set last Aug. 2.

The bank rate had climbed nine consecutive weeks, reaching 5.30 per cent three weeks ago, declining to 5.15 two weeks ago and then increased to 5.33 last week.

The rate is set at one-quarter of one per cent above the average yield of 91-day treasury bills. This week the average yield was 5.17 per cent, compared to 5.08 a week ago.

Death of Dulles Decided Adenauer

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today one reason why he changed his mind about seeking the less powerful post of president was the death of John Foster Dulles.

'Man Without a Country' Pulled Hoax on Canada

Hanna Really Egypt Citizen

OTTAWA (CP) — Christian George Hanna — a man without a country who found a haven in Canada for 18½ months—pulled off one of the biggest hoaxes in the history of Canadian immigration, it was disclosed today.

The immigration department said that Hanna was not a stateless person, as he claimed, but a citizen of Egypt. His real name is Ahmed Aouad and he was born and spent most of his life in Alexandria.

Hanna arrived at Port Alberni, B.C., in December, 1956, as a stowaway aboard the Norwegian freighter Gudveig. He told a story of more than a year of lonely exile on the high seas and asked that he be permitted to make a life for himself in Canada.

Immigration authorities tried to check Hanna's identity but made no progress because they had no information as to his nationality.

MARRIAGE OFFERS

His bid to enter Canada was supported by thousands of Canadians after they heard his story of world wandering. He received free legal help, money, job offers and three Vancouver women offered to marry him if it would help his cause.

Finally he was allowed to remain, but later had several brushes with the law. He was convicted of intoxication in a public place in May of last year and then of committing an indecent act involving a 25-year-old Vancouver housewife.

On Oct. 22, 1958, Immigration Minister Fairclough ordered the deportation of the slight, swarthy laborer because he had failed to demonstrate that he wanted to become a good Canadian.

He was deported by air to Lebanon, but Lebanese authorities gave only a verbal agreement to accept him. Later Canadian authorities learned that he had been convicted of a criminal offence in Beirut and sentenced to two months in jail.

Canadian authorities were on pins and needles because Hanna had a Canadian certificate of identification granted to him in March, 1957, to enable him to live in Canada. Until this certificate was returned there was a possibility that Lebanon might send Hanna back to Canada.

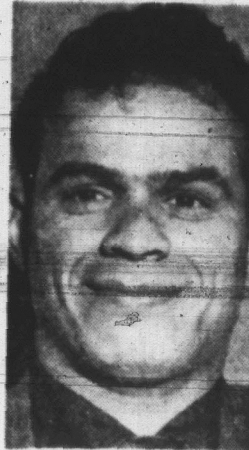

STOWAWAYS TOGETHER

While Hanna was in jail, police in Lebanon interviewed an Egyptian who had been deported from the United States. This Egyptian—now identified to Canadian authorities—said that he and Hanna had stowed away together on the Gudveig at Beirut.

The Egyptian eventually wound up in the U.S. under circumstances not known to Canadian officials. He told Beirut police Hanna's true identity and Hanna was deported from Lebanon to Egypt after his release from jail last March.

The research on the Hanna case was conducted by officials of the external affairs department in Beirut.

As a result of Hanna's deportation to Egypt, his Canadian certificate of identification has been returned to Ottawa. There now is no possibility of him being returned to Canada.

CCF IDEA

Road Link To Russia Suggested

OTTAWA (CP) — A linkup between Soviet and North American highways would be an excellent thing for international relations, CCF House Leader Hazen Argue suggested today.

He asked Gordon Robertson, deputy minister of northern affairs, whether any study has been made of Russian plans for a trans-Siberian highway and whether any thought has been given to building up Canada's road network to mesh with Russia. Cars then could drive to Asia via the Bering Strait route.

Mr. Robertson, questioned during a meeting of the Commons mines committee, said no Soviet trans-Siberian highway is known to exist and no such planning is known.

However, a few months ago a Soviet engineer had suggested linking North American and Russian railways by Bering Strait ferry service. But he doubted whether this is likely, at least in the foreseeable future.

Ship Founders, 8 Crew Saved

HALIFAX (CP) — Eight men took to lifeboats off the Newfoundland coast today when their 300-ton vessel began foundering in heavy seas. They were picked up by a ship waiting nearby.

The captain and seven crew members of the Quebec motor vessel Claudette V abandoned their vessel 40 miles south of Newfoundland at 5:26 a.m.

About 4½ hours earlier they asked for assistance after reporting the ship was foundering.

The Fauvette, chartered by Newfoundland Canada Steamships Limited for service between St. John's, Nfld., and here, went to the Claudette's aid.

4. The actual per capita debt of a Victoria resident is $244.63 not $17.51 as the premier states.

Mr. Strachan said he would appear on any platform with the premier "... and bring him face to face with his own figures."

He said: "The figures I have given, the premier's own figures, dug out of their hiding place demonstrate the complete unworthiness of any government that would indulge in this sort of double dealing and double talk ... the premier's claim is an absolute misrepresentation — completely false."

Plane Ready to Leave Herter Warns Gromyko

GENEVA (AP) — State Secretary Herter today warned Andrei Gromyko that his plane stands ready to leave for the United States at four hours' notice unless Russia brings the Big Four conference back onto a reasonable negotiating basis, Western diplomats reported.

Herter had called upon Gromyko on behalf of the Western ministers. He told the Soviet foreign minister that he and his colleagues took a "serious view" of the development of the last few days.

Herter indicated that these developments are bound to have an adverse effect on the work of the conference.

The U.S., Britain and France are expected to issue a joint statement publicly expressing their concern over the turn which the conference has taken.

But there were reports that they have agreed to continue with the conference as long as possible.

Herter reported on his conversation immediately to Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Ambassador Wilhelm Grewe of West Germany.

Emerging from the meeting Couve de Murville told reporters: "The conference is continuing. We will see how it develops from day to day."

Herter made a supreme bid to save the talks from collapse in his "man to man" meeting with Gromyko.

He hurried over to the Russian's villa after a half-hour conference with the other western ministers.

The conference was brought to a standstill Wednesday when Russia unexpectedly set a new 12-month deadline for the West to get out of Berlin. Western leaders expressed fears Russia was deliberately trying to wreck the talks.

They said it appeared likely that the foreign ministers' meetings might break up in disagreement within a few days unless the Russians revise their proposal drastically.

MAY MODIFY DEMAND

Under the barrage of Western criticism, however, Gromyko showed some signs Wednesday night of willingness to modify the new demand that the Western Allies get out of Berlin in a year.

He denied Western charges that the proposal is a take-it-or-leave-it ultimatum. Herter, however, told the foreign ministers at Wednesday's session that Western occupation rights were not granted by the Russians and "they are not rights which the Soviets can cancel, assign or modify."

Sources close to the Soviet delegation said Gromyko might fly to Moscow this week-end for consultations with Premier Khrushchev.

Otto Grotewohl, East German premier, and Communist party chief Walter Ulbricht already are in Moscow conferring with Khrushchev.

Publicity Curbed On Confessions

OTTAWA (CP) — Publication or broadcast of any admission or confession by an accused person during a preliminary hearing would be made illegal by Criminal Code amendments proposed to Parliament today by the government.

The object of the proposed amendment, says an explanatory note in the bill introduced by Justice Minister Fulton, "is to avoid prejudice to the accused."

The bill provides a number of other important changes in Canada's criminal law including:

1. A definition of obscenity for legal purposes—"any publication a dominant characteristic of which is the undue exploitation of sex, or of sex and any one or more of the following subjects, namely, crime, horror, cruelty and violence, shall be deemed to be obscene."

2. Courts would be empowered to order seized and destroyed any obscene publication or crime comic.

FIVE YEARS JAIL

3. It would be made a criminal offence to carry an imitation weapon for the purpose of committing a crime. Maximum penalty would be five years imprisonment.

The new provision on press coverage of preliminary hearings reads:

"Everyone who publishes in any newspaper, or broadcasts, a report that any admission or confession was tendered in evidence at a preliminary inquiry or a report of the nature of such admission or confession ... shall be deemed to be guilty of an offence unless (a) the accused has been discharged or (b) if the accused has been committed for trial, the trial has ended, is guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction."

Financially, one informant said, the delay means that the depleted insurance fund—now at about $450,000,000—will lose out by about $25,000,000. Major provision of the bill is an increase averaging 30 per cent in employee-employer contributions to the fund.

JOBLESS ACT AMENDMENTS DELAYED

OTTAWA (CP)—Slow passage of Unemployment Insurance Act amendments through a Commons committee means they will not go into effect until Sept. 27, officials said today.

Original expectations had been to put them into effect June 28. The two dates mark the start of the third and fourth quarters of the unemployment insurance commission's year.

To get the changes into effect for the third quarter, the measure would have had to get final passage by Friday—an impossibility.

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev refused in a Moscow Radio speech today to back down from the latest Soviet proposals to the Geneva conference in spite of Western charges the proposals were designed to wreck the talks.

That feller who has no country—guess there's a lot of 'em around here without one.

Th' Canadian navy seems t' hev had quite a wave along th' Columbia, but not of popularity.

Mister Herter has his plane warnin' up, so it's time th' Geneva conference did likewise.

Terrific Explosion Rocks Boston

BOSTON (AP) — More than a score of persons were injured in a terrific explosion of undetermined origin in the elevated structure of the Boston Rapid Transit System near the North Railroad Station today.

The Metropolitan Transit Authority said no one was killed.

Shortly after the accident the Massachusetts General Hospital reported that 20 persons had been brought in and others were still coming.

Rescue apparatus was used to pull victims from the torn elevated structure.

The hospital reported that most of those brought in appeared to have been burned in the blast.

The North Station is the main terminal for the Boston and Maine Railroad. It is in one of the most heavily congested traffic and business sections.

The explosion occurred about 2 p.m. EDT.

It was believed that the explosion came during a welding operation on the elevated property.

Part of the elevated structure fell into the street.

Jim Troup, an employee of a drug store in the North Station, said the blast blew out windows along the causeway street side of the station and knocked merchandise from the store shelves. An explosion of undetermined origin wrecked sections of the drug store a few weeks ago.

Troup said it was impossible to get to the scene, about 50 feet from the drug store, as ambulances, fire apparatus and rescue equipment jammed the area.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Calm our spirits, O God. As we confront one who makes us angry, permit us to see through our anger the other person's need and hopes. Help us to understand one another and, where we can find no understanding, to be patient. Where patience must give way to action, let our action be held up to the light of Thy love before we put it into effect, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

THIS WORLD OF OURS People and Things

(From Times News Services)

LONDON—Bachelor Billy Wallace, long a favorite target of gossip columnists, said emphatically today he's getting pretty tired of it all.

His wrath was aroused by a report in The Daily Express linking his name romantically with that of pretty Louise Taylor, 28-year-old daughter of Canadian industrialist E. P. Taylor.

"Billy Wallace buys a ring and a girl sees his mother," said The Express, leaving readers to draw the obvious conclusion.

"I am embarrassed and distressed. I will go through any court in any country to prove that I have not bought a ring for anyone, and have no intention of doing so in the future," said Wallace, who was often linked with Princess Margaret.

"The truth is that my life is frightfully dull. I wish the papers would leave me alone."

GOLDEN, Colo.—A hotel in this community at the edge of the mountains advertises 30 air-conditioned rooms and adds:

"If you can't sleep here, it is your conscience."

WASHINGTON—Joel Montgomery, 12, of Denver, Colo., today became the first boy in five years to win the national spelling bee.

Joel won out over runner-up Robert Crossley, 13, of Center Square, Pa., by correctly spelling "fanfaronade," which had tripped Robert. Joel then correctly spelled "catamaran."

ST. ROMUALD, Que.—Gerard Rochon picked up a hitch-hiking bear Wednesday, and he doesn't know what to do with it.

When he saw a tiny bear sitting in the middle of the highway, he stopped his car, opened the door and the bear jumped in. Until the mother claims it, or authorities come up with a better suggestion, the bear will be Rochon's house guest.

HOLLYWOOD—Comedian Bud Abbott, broke but too proud to declare bankruptcy, said today he and old-timer Eddie Foy Jr. were teaming up as a new comedy act.

SHERMAN OAKS, Calif.—

Lawyer Lynn R. Pettler had a grand opening at his new office Wednesday. But he wasn't prepared for the way one old client dropped in on him.

Mrs. Clara B. Fiske came in through the window—station wagon and all. She said she was parking in front of his office when the throttle stuck and the car went out of control. No one was injured.

Heat Melts Pipe, Averts Bad Fire

NANAIMO—A smouldering can of cigarette butts under a counter at the Elks Club extinguished itself early Wednesday morning when it melted a pipe which sprayed water over the flames.

Flame, damage to the counter and bar was about $100, but water from the pipe covered the floor to a depth of six inches and caused an additional $500 damage.

... STRACHAN

Theoretically, he said, direct debt is money that must be paid from the general revenue of the province, and the contingent liabilities are supposed to be self-liquidating.

The opposition leader quoted from public records to show that when the Social Credit government took over, the direct debt of the province stood at $165,000,000, while the contingent liabilities totalled $30,000,000.

Today, he said, the direct debt is said to be $27,000,000, while the contingent liabilities are expected to exceed $500,000,000 by the end of 1959.

Premier Bennett says he will wipe off the $27,000,000 by August 2, the seventh anniversary of the advent of the present government.

But Mr. Strachan argued that British Columbia's direct debt actually is far more than the $27,000,000 referred to, and he says a large share of the so-called contingencies are direct debt.

THEORY MEANINGLESS

The Premier's practise is completely different from the theory, because in what he calls contingent liabilities, we find included the school debt of the province, now amounting to some $86,000,000—50 per cent of which, plus interest, under the laws passed by the Legislature, must be paid by the provincial government out of general revenue," said Mr. Strachan.

He said the government has been hiding its payment of its share of the school debt in the "Aid to Education" vote in the estimates.

"In the year ending December 31, 1956, we paid $1,423,000 plus interest; in the year ending December 31, 1957, $1,702,000 plus interest; in the year ending December 31, 1958, $2,012,000 plus interest. 'Plus interest' in 1958 meant $1,738,000."

"That bonfire will be the funeral pyre of the Social Credit government and its ashes will be a symbol of their intellectual dishonesty, their political immorality and decadence."

DIPPING INTO TOLL

Mr. Strachan then went on to show that the B.C. Toll Highways and Bridges Authority also is dipping into the general revenues of the province and is not a true contingent liability, paying its own way.

He said that this year the toll authority is $66,762,729 and a sinking fund set up to counter this debt now contains $3,427,015.

Mr. Strachan quoted from the government estimates to show where $1,800,000 was paid from general revenue to the toll authority debt and $408,630 was paid from general revenue for maintenance.

"Self-liquidating?" asked Mr. Strachan. He estimated the province would pay $50,000,000 toward clearing the toll authority debt.

PAYMENTS GOING UP

"In the coming year... we are again paying $512,025 for maintenance... and $2,000,000 as a payment to the toll authority."

Heart Massage For Two Hours Saved His Life

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—For two hours and 26 minutes human hands squeezed and released the failing heart of a Miami dentist and kept him alive until he could rally.

Quick action by the brother of Dr. Raymond J. Smith, 45, was credited today by medical authorities with saving his life in what was described as one of the most remarkable cases of its kind on record.

Smith should recover and may return to his practice, said Dr. Robert S. Litwak, chief of thoracic surgery at the University of Miami Medical Centre.

The incident occurred Saturday but was not made public until Wednesday night. Hospital attendants said this is what happened:

Smith returned home from water skiing and complained of chest pains. His wife called in Dr. Donald W. Smith, a surgeon and older brother, who took him to hospital in an ambulance.

HEART FOR SCALPEL

Litwak said Dr. Raymond Smith suffered "a very severe attack at the hospital." The heart specialist was summoned from his office while the brother ran to get a scalpel.

The surgeon quickly opened his brother's chest cavity and began massaging the heart. Litwak and others joined him, and they worked for what they said seemed an eternity before the heart showed a faint pulse. Finally, the heart began to beat rhythmically and the dentist breathed again.

EAST GREENBUSH, N.Y. (AP)—A boy who wore tight pink trousers has led Columbia High School to ban all bizarre clothing.

The boy who wore pink trousers was sent home. Two days after, two other students showed up with bright yellow pants. This led to the ban.

IN PARLIAMENT

Seaway Construction Probe Urged By CCF

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA — A full-scale parliamentary inquiry into alleged defects in St. Lawrence Seaway construction was proposed Wednesday by CCF House Leader Hazen Argue.

Mr. Argue said he had been informed there were "substantial faults" and at least one "almost unbelievable error" in construction and engineering of locks around Montreal.

Inspection authorities had pointed out faults, he said, but nothing had been done to correct them.

Transport Minister Hees replied with a statement from the seaway authority that in a work as complicated, and extensive as the seaway there are bound to be some parts not satisfactory in the first instance.

Withhold Payments

The authority was following the usual practice of withholding full payment from contractors until specifications had been met fully.

Mr. Hees gave no indication that he would accede to the CCF call for an inquiry.

Mr. Argue attacked the construction of the new Cornwall Bridge, built across the river near that Ontario city in conjunction with the seaway, saying an engineer friend had told him it was "doomed" and could not last its normal life.

He said one pier already had started shifting because the foundations had not been placed on bedrock. Its safety should be investigated.

Lionel Chevrier (L. Montreal Laurier), former president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, defended the bridge. "There is absolutely nothing wrong with it," he said.

'Just Gossip'

Liberal J. W. Pickersgill, of Bonaville, Twillingate, described Mr. Argue's accusations as "just gossip" when the CCF leader refused to give the House the name of his informant.

Mr. Argue said he was an engineer who had worked on the construction of the seaway and who was willing to appear under oath before any investigating body.

On a recent visit to the St. Lambert, Cote Ste. Catherine and Beauharnois locks, he had seen huge bulges in the walls, which he termed "as almost unbelievable error in engineering and construction."

Mr. Argue said he had seen water spurting through leakages in the lock gates and coming up between cement blocks in one of the locks.

"If these reinforcement blocks are so porous that water comes up through the cement, I am sure that their life will indeed be limited."

He wanted competent engineers brought before a committee to "testify as to why this faulty construction exists and to what extent it, in fact, endangers the life of the seaway."

Greater federal financial help for Canada's tourist industry was supported Wednesday by the Senate tourist committee as it heard the Canadian Tourist Association lay down a six-point program for improvement of the Canadian vacation plant.

The House mines committee decided Wednesday to make a flying trip to the Yukon and the Northwest Territories to inspect development work in the two northern areas.

Nicaragua Wants Total Surrender

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua's government today held out for the unconditional surrender of rebel invaders from Costa Rica after rejecting an offer from 45 of the insurgents to give up if given safe conduct out of the country.

Encouraged by eyewitness reports of rebel disintegration, the commander of Nicaragua's armed forces, Gen. Anastasio Somoza, said he believed the 45 would surrender today. They face trial, with nine-year prison terms the maximum penalty possible.

Two reporters who visited the rebel band and brought out their spokesman said 16 of the group refused to give up and marched off into the mountains to continue their defiance of Gen. Somoza and his brother, President Luis Somoza.

Despite the government claims and the eyewitness report, a Nicaraguan rebel raid heard in Honduras said insurgents killed 86 Nicaraguan national guardsmen in fighting for the town of Boaco, 60 miles northeast of Managua. The broadcast added that newly-acquired planes were bringing ammunition and weapons.

TORIES TOAST PM IN VICTORY ANNIVERSARY

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative MPs Wednesday night toasted Prime Minister Diefenbaker as they celebrated the second anniversary of the 1957 election victory that brought their party to office.

They pinned a blue flower in his lapel and sang 'For He's a Jolly Good Fellow' at a party in a big Commons committee room.

WORK STARTS ON NEW AGENCY

Huge NATO Aid Urged

LONDON (CP) — Delegates to the Atlantic Congress ended their six-day conference Wednesday and immediately embarked on preliminary arrangements to implement some of their proposals.

In a general declaration, the 650 delegates from 14 of the 15 NATO countries prescribed more co-operation among Western Allies and a massive aid program for underdeveloped countries as some of the guidelines for the Atlantic alliance during the next decade. But they warned that the West must continue to rely on military might to hold the line against Communism, and urged that NATO forces forming the European shield be brought up to strength as soon as possible.

Some of the delegates started work on a proposal to create a studies centre for the Atlantic community to serve as a clearing house and intellectual focus for the alliance—a move strongly backed by Canadian delegates.

The proposal was drafted by a committee headed by Canada's Dana Wilgress.

Present plans call for meetings before the delegates disperse to set up a preparatory committee to plan and consider financing the centre. Expectations are its budget will have to be about £300,000 annually for five years.

Turning Off the Gas

THE CANADIAN PARLIAMENT, which necessarily knows little about these things, believes that it has put the western oil and gas industries under sound control. The editors of The Calgary Albertan, who necessarily know a great deal about them, believe the new energy board legislation simply will not work and will have to be changed. Unless it is changed, says The Albertan, not another mile of gas pipeline will be built in Canada, except perhaps, by companies already in operation. An industry which should vastly expand for the national benefit will be paralyzed.

This, The Albertan thinks, must be the inevitable result of the vague, incalculable powers vested in the new National Energy Board and in the Cabinet. As Mr. Churchill, the responsible minister, explains, the Government considers it unwise to establish in advance a rigid rate of pipeline charges, or even a formula on which to base them, because different projects would have different circumstances. He wants to keep the legislation and its application "flexible."

But, says The Albertan, "flexibility is not the right word. He should have said 'in doubt.' Actually this bill is one of rigid unworkability. . . . Any new company will find it impossible to raise money under the terms of this bill." For no company can know in advance whether it will have the chance to make any profit.

Under the law, as The Albertan outlines it, presumably "the company is financed, the money assured. Then the board may or may not license the company, and if it issues a license it sets the pipeline tolls. Then the cabinet will or will not approve the license. And . . . the board may then change the tolls at any time. Under that formula it would be impossible to raise one dollar."

No financial institution, The Albertan believes, will put money into such a doubtful proposition, subject to change in regulation at the will of the board or the cabinet.

In its legislation the Government apparently regards both gas and oil as being monopolistic by nature, like electrical or telephone operations. This clearly is not true. Gas and oil, compete against each other as fuels and both must compete with coal, in some cases with electricity.

"The producing and pipelining industries," The Albertan notes, "have already given Ontario and Quebec a new choice in fuel. This new alternative, this competitive fuel, has brought down the price of the established fuels, thus already conferring an advantage on consumers there, even if they don't use the gas. In many cases the fuel oil has come down so far that it is now cheaper than gas. Yet this bill controls the price of gas, but not of fuel oil or coal. What is the sense or fairness of that? It was the availability of gas, not government controls, that brought down the price of fuel oil, and surely the availability of fuel oil is sufficient control of the price of gas."

The Government has made no attempt to answer this argument and it doesn't know yet what it is going to do about either gas or oil under the new legislation. It has instructed the energy board to fix gas pipeline tolls on a fair basis, without defining that basis. It has taken power to control imports and exports of oil at any time without consulting Parliament—a clear violation of Parliament's rights which the Government used to defend so passionately.

In short, there is legislation but there is no real gas or oil policy. Evidently a policy of sorts is to be developed by experience but in the meantime neither the gas nor the oil industry knows where it stands, or may stand a few months hence. It might be supposed from the recent Parliamentary debate that every company entering the gas and oil fields had made huge profits at the public expense and therefore must be rigorously disciplined. On the contrary, as The Albertan says, the reliable Financial Post Survey of Oils lists some 2,500 oil and gas companies now "dead, dormant or inactive." A few companies succeeded but most of them failed in a very risky business.

So it must be in such an industry, The Albertan says, but the industry cannot exist without promotion, risk and hope. The Government, it concludes, "would penalize promotion, aggravate the risk and smother the hope," to the grave damage of western Canada.

One Year of de Gaulle

A YEAR AGO GEN. CHARLES de Gaulle took over the reins in France. At the time he was regarded as a potential "Man on Horseback."

Since then he has revealed a degree of leadership that, controversial as it may be on such questions as the use of French forces within the NATO organization, has restored a measure of stability to the republic unknown in the last decade or two.

Writing for The Christian Science Monitor, Joan Thieriet offers this judgment of his public personality:

"President de Gaulle over the past 12 months has presented the picture of a man of an autocratic cast of mind, strong enough to direct his ministers with an authority totally lacking under the Fourth Republic but essentially antidictatorial in his objectives. He sees himself as the father of a much-mismanaged country, but not by any means as a despotic parent.

"His attitude has been that of a kind but firm father, who knows what is best for the family but who is also anxious to teach the French to stand on their own feet, to admire virtue and disown facility, to face difficulty and overcome it with common sense and perseverance."

Under him France has made astonishing economic gains, has achieved a financial position stronger than any since the 1920s and has won back into circulation hidden French capital.

In labor-management relations the country has enjoyed a honeymoon that could end soon as wage-earners begin to feel that they have carried too much of the load of French recovery.

The Algerian problem remains far from solved. But at least de Gaulle has pushed through reforms which give the Moslems much more liberty and present to them a view of ultimate equality. Politically, the country has been apathetic during the 12 months. The father image of the president has been reassuring to many Frenchmen and the burning democratic ideal has appeared to slumber.

Therein lies one of the dangers apparent after a year of de Gaulle. He has brought strength and benevolence to France's administration. But without a successor imbued with his particular character, the form of government he has set up, giving wide powers to the executive, could blaze the trail to dictatorship.

Reckless Ride to Jail

A YOUNG MOTORIST, CONVICTED for the second time for driving while his license was suspended, has been sentenced to 30 days in jail, with other penalties covering his third conviction for careless driving.

That is a stiff sentence. It is imposed for a serious offense. Just possibly the young man concerned may use some of that time to consider himself lucky that his type of driving has not resulted in major tragedy—the death or severe injury of someone using the highway at the same time.

Whether he is moved to such thought or not, the sentence stands as an example to others who might be tempted to ignore license suspension. They may draw the conclusion from the recent case that driving while under suspension is punishable by more than a slap on the wrist.

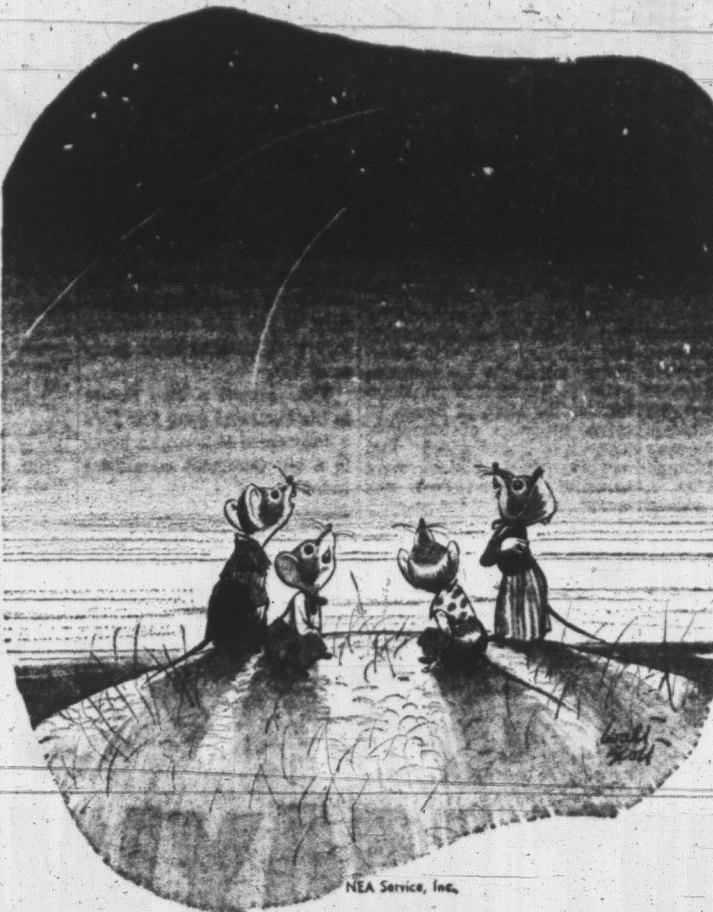

If the penalty acts as a deterrent, as it should, a valuable purpose will have been served.

A Golfer's Help?

TO MANY VICTORIANS, AS well as tourists, one of the most striking vistas in Canada is the view of the sea and the Olympic mountains from the roadway dividing the Oak Bay golf course.

The Capital Improvement District Commission has done a first-class job of widening and paving this road, thus enhancing what is already a truly spectacular vista.

The government deserves congratulations on this and several other jobs which the CIDC has undertaken. And the Oak Bay development, one suspects, was planned by a golfer. The "lookout" is situated a good 300 yards from the third tee, and is thus well beyond the range of even the most prodigious hookers.

Little Man in a Big World

IN a special supplement celebrating its first 75 years of publication The Victoria Times wrote mostly about its own town. That was natural and appropriate on a local occasion but it represented a fundamental, though little noted fact of North American civilization at large. I mean that it is essentially a local civilization (as perhaps all civilizations have always been) despite every appearance to the contrary.

Hutchison

So perhaps it must be despite every effort to make him something else. And hence the great dilemma of our present world.

MEN in this town, and every North American town, read about the great world outside their boundaries, a few of them take a considerable interest in its affairs but, as every newspaper knows, it is the local story that appeals most to the ordinary reader.

A single murder in our town is more interesting to us than a general massacre in Tibet or the mass starvation lately reported in China. A row in the city council intrigues more hometown people than a row among the foreign ministers at Geneva and usually gets more space, for the news editors know their public.

There is nothing new or mysterious about this. An attachment to the things immediately around it, the things it understands and may possibly control, is inherent in human nature. Man can penetrate outer space and dimly sense the size of the universe but he prefers his own tiny corner. He proposes to travel to the moon and the satellites in the near future but his own street, and one house in it, are the centre of his private universe.

WE speak of Canada and the United States as nations and single entities but of course they are nothing of the sort. Within them live many nations, tribes innumerable and communities as different from one another as foreign nations.

The nation-wide laws, the general constitutions, the emblems of national flags and all the statesmen's rousing speeches cannot disguise this wide disparity beneath the surface. A nation is held together by a few general ideas, traditions, prejudices and myths in centripetal motion but it must always contend with the centrifugal motion of local interests. A foreign traveler, observing the utterly distinct civilizations of Toronto and Vancouver, for instance, or of New York and Los Angeles, must wonder how nations so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. But they do.

AGAIN, we say that modern communications and the drive toward conformity are making everybody the same within—nations and between nations but these forces are pretty superficial. On the contrary a good case could be made for the proposition that the communities and tribes of North America, inwardly speaking, grow more diverse all the time as increasing leisure gives them the chance to develop their own eccentricities.

We speak also of the One World advocated by such men as the late Wendell Willkie. We all know, if we stop to think of it, that some day we must erect a world government or finally destroy the world, but new nations, new passions and new conflicts are erupting all over the map these days to threaten a shaky peace.

It is a cliché and a platitude to say that man is not ready for the kind of world his machines and weapons have constructed, but it is true and frightening—if man must destroy his world, which often seems quite likely, it will be because he cannot truly look beyond his own nation, his own town, his own street and his own backyard.

It would be more comfortable and healthy, no doubt, if he didn't have to, but unfortunately he must, if he is to survive. Not so very long hence there must be One World or none.

There is the dilemma the world-wide, interdependent and brittle system and, attempting to make it work, the local, self-centred and frightened little creature called man. All his intelligence will be needed to save the general structure but most of his thoughts, all but a few minutes in his day, are devoted to the small, interesting human things close around him, a luxury he just can't afford any more.

PERHAPS he could afford it 75 years ago when The Victoria Times first rolled off a borrowed press but the old elbow room has been swallowed up by what we call progress. That, I suppose, is what the old-timers mean when they say that 75 years ago life was better than it is now. At all events, it was more in accordance with human nature, which refuses to change as rapidly as its environment and therefore faces today the dilemma of the ancient dinosaurs. They perished because they couldn't see beyond the local swamp.

SCREAMING COLD

One cannot—so it strikes me—explain what it is like to be bitterly, unspokeably cold, because cold-hurts in a way that heat does not, and there is some barrier in the mind which prevents us from bringing together the sensation of pain and the expression of it. The nearest one can get is a scream, and it has to be a genuine scream inspired by the pain of the moment—you cannot write it down afterwards.

Czech Christianity

The remarks attributed to Mr. Gagliardi in your Thursday edition are either false or convey a distorted picture of Christianity in Czechoslovakia.

I, too, visited Czechoslovakia in the summers of 1937 and 1938. In 1936 I had written my BA thesis on Christianity behind the Iron Curtain so I made a point while in Prague of looking into the state of the church there.

If Mr. Gagliardi was so concerned over the state of Christianity why did he not go to more direct sources: the government-run department of religion offices; the professors and students of the Comenies and the Hus faculties; the pastors and their congregations?

Of course, government officials have to say they don't believe in God whether they do or not, otherwise they wouldn't be in the positions they are in communist countries. If he spent "some time" in Prague he would have found that there is not only the Roman Catholic cathedral left, but there are numerous Protestant churches throughout the city. They are well filled and not with elderly folk.

Prof. J. L. Hromadka teaches, "You must walk on the edge of the knife and not be afraid." Following this advice one Christian boy remarked to me, "We have been forced into this system. Now we must take the positive possibilities and seek to progress through using co-operative methods." And the Christian in Czechoslovakia is a Christian of his own choice knowing that it may bring discrimination with it, but also that with the teachings of Christ he cannot be afraid or reactionary. It is a "lively" Christianity in Prague, something that cannot be said for much of our faith.

CPR and Monarchy

Although I heartily agree with your correspondent C. S. Humber in his letter of May 28, on the subject of dictation from the local transit company I must take issue with him on two points in his letter.

1. Mr. Humber attacks the CPR and states that "our fathers gave the CPR free this and free that in order to have them build themselves a monarchy." Surely Mr. Humber must know and appreciate the fact that at the time the CPR built the railway across Canada our country was very thinly populated and the investment of such large sums of money in the project was what we call today "risk capital."

In view of this the promoters demanded and were granted concessions to which Mr. Humber now takes exception. Even today and for investment in our own country Canadians, in general, are most reluctant to invest their savings in such projects with the result that most of our oil and mining companies are foreign owned and operated.

In this day and age the promoter makes enormous profits by being allowed stock options without the investment of large sums of capital. In making this statement I refer to the gas trunk lines in which large sums of money were made in this way. At least the investors in the CPR risked their capital in a faroff and little developed land with a small population, and it is only natural that they should have requested and obtained concessions of land and other intrinsic advantages.

I am wondering how many Canadians would be prepared to invest their savings in the construction of a railway or other project in faroff Australia or Africa without adequate protection of their capital as stipulated by the CPR when they agreed to build the railway.

2. Mr. Humber states "like all monarchies they do not progress with the times." I take great exception to this statement as one only has to look at the progress of the monarchies in Great Britain, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and others to see that in fact great progress has taken place and the record of these constitutional monarchies compares favorably with the lack of progress in many Republican forms of government especially the U.S. and France.

One only has to look at the unwieldy form of government in the U.S. where there is a Republican President and a Democratic Congress with the result that little can be accomplished in legislation. France had to revise its constitution in order to meet the challenge of 1959 and in doing this it had to give almost dictatorial powers to its president. In our constitutional monarchy form of government we do not have to suffer "witch hunting" by senatorial committees, the maintenance of the second largest state police force in the world, union racketeering, undue authority placed in the hands of one man—the President, and a legal system which is some 50 years behind the times.

I still feel that Mr. St. Laurent was so right when he stated that he felt that the constitutional monarchy form of government was best suited to Canada and was in fact developed to its high efficiency by years of trial and error.

I support Mr. Humber 100 per cent in his contention that we, the people, should not be dictated to by the local transit company, the CPR or in fact any company handling public utilities as the interests of the people should come before all other considerations.

Good Teeth

I wish to endorse the views expressed in the letter in Tuesday's issue of the Times against fluoridation of our water.

My family has long since grown up. They still have excellent teeth and we have lived in this city for 43 years. If children are properly fed and cared for, their teeth like the rest of the body will be healthy.

There is great need, as your correspondent says, for proper facilities for correcting young offenders, care for elderly people and many worthwhile projects while fluoridation is not necessary and can be harmful. We are being expected to death. How glibly can we get.

Dr. Adenauer's Difficulties

ALTHOUGH in the past sixty days Dr. Adenauer has reversed himself about the presidency and the chancellorship, his convictions and his purpose have been quite consistent.

Above all other things, above, for example, the reunification of the two Germanys—he is determined to assure the continuity of a close collaboration between West Germany and France. This is the core of his European policy. Its instrumentalities are the Common Market, the coal and steel and atomic communities, and in a considerable degree NATO itself. The binding force for the time being is personal affinity between Dr. Adenauer and Gen. de Gaulle.

The problem which he has been wrestling with this spring is how he himself can most effectively defend and promote this Franco-German policy.

On April 7, he had let himself be persuaded by his party leaders to give up being Chancellor and to run for President. He believed then that this was the best way to insure his policy beyond the hazards of the elections of 1961.

For at least two years to come, he would be President and the Chancellor would be his appointee and his subordinate. The Chancellor would be Herr Etzel, who is an experienced and deeply convinced believer in the Adenauer policy.

During these two years, Dr. Adenauer would enhance the power of the French President. Then, if the elections of 1961 went against the Adenauer party, he would still be President with much power and great influence to check any radical revision of his policy.

These calculations have miscarried because the bulk of the party leaders refused to accept Herr Etzel as Chancellor. The party insisted that the Chancellor be Dr. Erhard, whom they consider their very best vote-getter. This destroyed the assumptions on which Dr. Adenauer had made his decision to give up the Chancellorship and to run for President.

Wider Markets

For two big reasons Dr. Adenauer could not accept Dr. Erhard. One is that Dr. Erhard is not an enthusiast for the idea of a Little Europe of six nations revolving around collaboration between Paris and Bonn. He is in fact a German version of a 19th Century capitalist liberal who expects an ever-increasing prosperity to come out of ever-wider and freer markets.

He believes in wider markets not only in the Little Europe, not only in the bigger Europe which includes Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries, but also in all of Europe which would mean more trade with Eastern Europe, with Russia, and beyond.

Although Dr. Erhard has conformed and has been loyal, he is not a true believer in the Adenauer European policy. At the same time he is not a yes-man, and he is in fact a strong man in his own right.

With him as Chancellor, Dr. Adenauer would be unable to enhance greatly the powers of the President. So he has felt compelled to reverse the decision of April 7, and to declare his intention of remaining, if he can, Chancellor at least until after the elections of 1961.

This is not, to be sure, the official explanation. But it is the only one that makes sense and fits all the known facts. Moreover, it is the view generally held by those who have a close knowledge of the problems of the Common Market and of Franco-German collaboration.

Must Stay

In his television speech Dr. Adenauer explained the reversal of his decision by saying that since April 7 the international situation has deteriorated, and that therefore he must stay at his post.

This is certainly true of his own European policy in that his calculations about the future have foundered on the rocks of German internal politics. The kind of collaboration which now exists between Gen. de Gaulle and Dr. Adenauer is not assured for a long future, in that in neither Germany nor France there is a successor in sight who can be counted upon to carry on.

Apart from this, can it be said that the international situation has deteriorated? Has anything happened since April 7 which was not clearly foreseen then?

It was evident then that there could not be an agreement to reunite the two Germanys, that the Soviet Union would not permit it, and that not in Bonn, Paris, or London, was there any serious and ardent wish to bring about reunification. On April 7 it was evident also that nothing could be done to reunite the two Berlins.

It was evident, too, that if the future of West Berlin as a member of the Western community was to be assured, it would not be sufficient to stand pat on things as they are. For the position of West Berlin is very vulnerable to all manner of pressure and harassment and to uncertainty and anxiety.

Against these pressures there is in fact no military defence. Therefore the future of West Berlin must be assured, if we are to honor our commitments, by the statesmen.

They must build upon the old foundation which is that West Berlin belongs to the Western community and that the Western powers have a right to be present there with troops. Upon this old foundation they must build a new structure, of which the essential elements are that it has the explicit approval of the Big Four and of the two Germanys and of the international society.

This may take some time to achieve. But as long as it is a practical possibility, it cannot be said that the international situation in Europe has deteriorated badly.

The Bible as Literature

SOMETIMES before I fall asleep at night, I read a page or two of the Holy Bible. I read it chiefly for the beauty and simplicity of the language, and the volume I usually select is "The Bible Designed to Be Read as Literature."

It's edited and arranged by Ernest Sutherland Bates. The prose is written as prose with modern paragraphing and modern typography. It seemed strange to me at first, but now I prefer it to the traditional arrangement of prose chopped into little verses dotted all over with italics and numerals, printed in double columns, and having what Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch calls "a marginal gutter on each side, each gutter pouring down an inky flow of references and cross references."

All this has been done with the "high and humble aim" of fostering appreciation and love of the Bible as literature.

The introduction is by the poet, Laurence Binyon.

There may be some still, says Binyon, to whom it savours of a kind of derogation to treat of the sacred scriptures as "literature." "It is the inward message, they will say, which matters, not the outward form."

But the matter and the form are indivisible, Binyon contends and adds: "But can it be supposed that the words which have carried hope and awe, fortitude and consolation into the minds of British people for so many generations would have had anything like the same virtue and power if they hadn't been shaped into a noble and unforgettable form?"

In another part of the introduction, Binyon says that the tradition handed down from the Middle Ages "has been to regard it (the Bible) as a collection of texts, any one of which could be detached from its surroundings and used, regardless of the circumstances in which it was written or by whom it was spoken, as divine authority for conduct; often, as we know, with devastating consequences.

"Texts have been set up as idols, as cruel as ever were worshipped by idolaters. A single text, literally interpreted, was held by pious, slave traders to authorize the enslavement of the negro race."

(Nowadays, of course, the fundamentalists are using the same device to uphold capital punishment and oppose blood transfusions.)

"To read the books of the Bible, each as a whole," writes Binyon, "and with understanding of the circumstances in which each was written (so far as these are known) is the only way to reach a real appreciation of the great literature it contains; it may perhaps help a little to clean the mind of literalism and legalism, those poisons of the human soul."

Binyon then writes of Hebrew poetry. "There is no description of things for their own sake; they are vividly seen, but all things are related to one another; we are made aware of them 'all the mountains and the streams, the vineyards, the olives, the desert places, the sheep and cattle, the wild ass and the lion in the wilderness, the tender grass, the rocks, the sea and the ships upon the sea, the fishes under the water, the stars, the rain, the wind, and in all this world men moving and going about their business, acting, suffering, rejoicing; all these are related to one another because united by the presence in the poet's consciousness of the pervading power of the invisible Creator."

"A modern reader," Binyon continues, "may have quite other ideas about the constitution of the universe, a quite different approach to it; but he will hardly deny that it is a living and mysterious whole."

"Through this profound conviction of the unity of life, Hebrew poetry has a grandeur of vision together with a kindling warmth and passion which we find in no other poetry with the same constancy or to the same degree."

Finding a Specialist

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Hundreds of people write asking me where they can find a specialist or consultant able enough to settle a problem that has come up. Perhaps three doctors have advised one thing and two doctors have advised something else. What is the poor puzzled patient to do? Sometimes, when I know a good specialist in the particular city, I can help the people. Often, when they write from a small town, I can't help because I don't know the name of their nearest big city, or I don't happen to know an able specialist in that city.

Usually, if the patient has a good kindly general practitioner or family doctor, this man will find him a good consultant.

Many of my patients love the chapter on how to find a doctor or specialist which I wrote with great care and inserted in my book, "Danger Signals" (Heines Publishing Co., 123 N. 3rd St., Minneapolis, Minn.). In this book I not only tell puzzled people what are the bad symptoms, like bleeding from the bowel, which should always send a person running quickly to a doctor, but also what are the usually inconsequential symptoms, perhaps of nervousness, which need not cause alarm.

Scores of women keep asking how on earth they can get rid of the trichomonas parasite which has invaded their vagina and which causes perhaps a discharge with itching and burning, and hypersensitivity. Fortunately, in many cases, the parasite does not cause much discomfort, and it may die out of itself or after a few vinegar douches. A few women suffer great distress. They spend hundreds of dollars getting well, and then, in a few weeks, the parasite is back again. I know cases of this type in which the husband and wife kept trying the parasite back and forth. They must both be cured at the same time.

Many women want to know when around menopause time, they can quit worrying about getting pregnant. According to the U.S. Census, there are only three chances in 1,000 of a woman's having a baby after she is 45, and only five chances in 10,000 of having one after the age of 50. Obstetricians tell me that only a few times in their life they have seen a woman of 50 or so who had a baby after she seemed to have quit menstruating.

New I read in The Journal of the American Medical Association, an expert answer to this question. The authority said that in 63,000 deliveries at Johns Hopkins there was only one in the case of a woman over 47. At the Boston Lying-In Hospital, the oldest patient ever delivered was 49. In the Chicago Lying-In, among over 50,000 deliveries there were two of women of 46 and two of women of 48. Drs. DeLee and Greenhill each delivered one woman at 52. The authority concluded that any woman who has quit menstruating by age 49 or even 47 has almost no chance of getting pregnant.

Wax Begonias Go Outdoors

Until about seven years ago it was not usual to see the little wax begonia enjoying the air and sun.

open, bushy plants with the shrubs and perennials.

For generations, the wax begonia, or the ever-blooming begonia (Begonia semperflorens) has been a favorite house plant in many countries.

Later we have seen it taken outdoors, and used as a brilliant edging to shrub borders, or as a complement to beds of grey-foliated plants.

Begonia semperflorens may have bright green shiny leaves or, as in the hybrid varieties, dark purplish leaves. The myriads of flowers come in white, pink and red, giving a continuous display from the time they are planted out during June, until frost overtakes them.

The many named varieties may be easily raised from seed sown in January in a heated greenhouse, to provide a quantity of one-color plants for a specific purpose. Dwarf forms come no more than six inches high outdoors, and for edging this is probably the most desirable kind.

While not particularly fussy as to soil, the border should be well dug, and have humus compost added, with a little bonemeal. If the soil tends to pack, coarse sand should be mixed with the compost.

At the first touch of frost, it is wise to cut back the plants just above ground level, and lift them. They may be overwintered in pots, or four-inch-deep flats of loose soil similar to that described.

The plants will flower indoors during winter, and after being cut back rather closely in February, will be ready to set out again the following June.

On the other hand, if green-house space is at a premium during winter, as it usually is, consign the old plants to the compost heap and start a fresh batch each January.

Flowering is more prolific on young plants.

Rumors on Lloyd Started by Mac Columnists Say

LONDON (Reuters) — Two newspaper columnists claimed today that Prime Minister Macmillan was the source of a story indicating Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd might be moved to a new post.

The story in the influential Times touched off a heated controversy on the effects the report would have on Lloyd's usefulness in the current Geneva foreign ministers' conference.

Because of quick backing for Lloyd from Macmillan and denials that there were any plans to shift him, the foreign secretary emerged more strongly entrenched in his job than ever.

WON'T BACK DOWN

The columnists were commenting on an editorial in The Times, Wednesday, in which it said that it would not "alter or withdraw" a word from the report forecasting Lloyd's replacement. It stressed that the report said any move for Lloyd was "still several months ahead."

Michael Foot, columnist in The Daily Herald, Labor, commented that the editorial meant

Classified Ads His 'Gold Mine'

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

For 75 years (and three days) the Victoria Times has been telling people there is gold in its classified columns. Many readers believed. Others were not so sure.

For the skeptics there is living proof today in at there is gold in Times want ads. Ask Lew Lunde.

Ever since he had the good sense to leave Vancouver for Victoria four years ago Mr. Lunde has been an avid Times subscriber. He is not particularly concerned with events at Geneva. Nor does he faithfully pursue such matters as which husband Elizabeth Taylor is currently housekeeping with. Neither can he tell you with certainty the standings of the Toronto Stock Exchange or the American Baseball League.

But just ask what's happening in the classified columns and then stand back. He knows them as well as if he wrote them. Friends kid him about having "classified squint," a malady which grows on people who scan columns of undergrown print.

But Mr. Lunde squints with a purpose. In the last two years of squinting he has picked up two modestly lucrative real estate properties. Last January he was scanning "Business Opportunities" when his trained eye began to twitch like a geiger counter. This is what he read: "Have high-grade gold mine. Like partner to form company. Box..."

ANSWERS AD

Unable to look a potential bargain in the mouth, he answered the ad. The man at the other end turned out to be a Mr. George Powell, 56. An interview disclosed that Mr. Powell had a limp he picked up while arguing with the krauts in South Africa, a reputation as an expert marksman and a gold mine in the hills of B.C.

In the next month no mining authority in B.C. escaped Mr. Lunde's attention. He asked questions until his tongue ran out of saliva. The consensus of opinion was that Mr. Powell's project was real and that there could be gold in his hill.

Good enough, said Mr. Lunde. He put some money—not too much—into the pot and said "let's go." Mr. Powell went. Up to Mr. Elise, 5,000 feet tall just outside of Ymir in the Kootenays. He'd been there before. In 1932-33, he toiled as mine manager for an old English family which worked the mine from 1897 to 1939. After that the mine lay idle. The old English family showed no further interest in it. But George Powell did.

His trained eye detected veins which looked rich—or at least promising. In April, 1958, he had purchased for a nominal sum the option on the property.

With Mr. Lunde's donation, Mr. Powell made investments in machinery, materials and manpower.

Re-timbering of the main shaft has been completed. Two weeks ago they began operations. By the end of June they hope to be marketing gold. Currently the stuff sells for about $35.50 an ounce or slightly more than high-grade perfume. Mr. Lunde doesn't care what his gold smells like as long as it's there.

Mr. Powell, whom Mr. Lunde describes as "extremely conservative," says he has discovered one major vein and four exciting arteries coming off it. Conservatively speaking, he estimates that this discovery contains three-to-nine ounces of gold per ton. Since other B.C. gold mines are happy if their workings yield from 28 to 65 ounces of gold per ton, Mr. Lunde and Mr. Powell are happiest when they are in the hole. Their hole.

If it develops that Mr. Powell miscalculated the gold potential, everything isn't lost. On a recent trip to the mine, Mr. Lunde was overwhelmed with the amount and variety of wildlife which cavort over his real estate.

"I saw grizzlies, brown bear, elk, deer, beaver and white-tail deer. There were so many blue grouse on the road we practically had to push them out of the way with our jeep," he says.

All of which proves that whether you're game for game or game for gold, the Times classified ads probably contain your particular cup of tea. Or, as Mr. Lunde might put it, "a squint in time may lead to a gold mine."

RESEARCH CHIEF— Benjamin O. Baker, 42, of Quebec City, has been appointed director of weapons research at defence research board headquarters, succeeding G. D. Watson who was given a new position.

CLEAN UP UNION OR JAIL

Hoffa Caught on Spot

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa faces an unhappy choice today. Either way, his continued rule of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters is in jeopardy.

Under a new court order, Hoffa must either lead a thorough cleanup of his union or face a possible jail sentence himself for contempt.

He told a Teamsters rally in Newark, N.J., Wednesday night that the union would respect the federal court order "although we may not like it in its entirety." But he added:

"Be assured though, it's only a matter of time until we file an appeal to the Supreme Court."

If Hoffa espouses reform, bringing disciplinary and ouster proceedings against some of his closest lieutenants as ordered, he loses support of key men who helped him move to the union's leadership.

If Hoffa continues to balk at union reforms—only recently he said there was no Teamsters corruption to investigate—he is bound to run into difficulty in the courts.

The dilemma confronting Hoffa is the result of a U.S. court of appeals ruling Wednesday. The court held unanimously that Hoffa and his union, largest in North America with 1,600,000 members, must knuckle down to reforms recommended by court-appointed monitors.

Obedience to reforms may include a union investigation of charges against Hoffa himself. The monitors have been holding off a batch of charges brought by union members against Hoffa until monitor enforcement powers were cleared up.

Court Order Frightens Elderly Folk

Amendment of present regulations requiring a court order being served on elderly persons, who are incapable of caring for themselves before they can be moved, is sought by Victoria-Esquamalt health board.

Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy Tuesday told the board that although only a formality, the court order frequently frightened the elderly persons who were being moved to hospitals or nursing homes.

She said the city's health department would like the right to move the persons after consultation with the family doctor and welfare officials, and then obtain court sanction by a stipulated deadline.

CONQUERED NORTHWEST PASSAGE

Historic Vessel Of Arctic Fame Star of Museum

VANCOUVER (CP) — The historic little RCMP patrol vessel St. Roch, 13 years a defiant master in Arctic waters, today will be enshrined beside the Vancouver Centennial Maritime Museum.

The rugged vessel, the first to circumnavigate North America, will again take the limelight as the star of the ceremony here. Her last skipper, Rupt, Henry Larsen, who retired as head of the RCMP's G Division which includes the Northwest Territories and the Yukon—will be there also.

A career of fame is behind St. Roch. In her gallant lifetime she sailed through the Northwest Passage from west to east and back again—a route ancient sailors thought would be a shortcut to the riches of the east. She was a regular supply ship for many Arctic outposts.

When she slipped into Vancouver harbor in 1954 after a voyage from Halifax south through Panama, there were big plans for her retirement. She was to be converted into a museum.

Major Exhibit In Maritime Show

But for 18 months she lay idle in drydock, her paint cracked and peeled. Then two city businessmen offered to pay for her repair and again plans were made to use her as a star in a maritime museum here.

The museum building, however, is just a shell, almost bare of exhibits. So after a four-day show, the museum will be closed until next March. The St. Roch, however, will be the star today and in future expansion plans.

The vessel—built here in 1928—spent 13 of her 26 years in the Arctic. When she ended her last journey the years of toil were apparent.

She creaked and groaned and leaked like a sieve.

The St. Roch is 104 feet long. Her nose is straight but her bottom is built like a saucer—once essential for ice-breaking duties. She has masts fore and aft and sports a high bridge.

Royal Roads Post To Guards Officer

Lt. Col. H. E. C. Price, now commander of the 2nd Battalion of the Canadian Guards in Germany, is coming to Victoria in August to be vice-commandant and officer commanding the cadet wing at Royal Roads Tri-Services College.

He will replace Wing Commander J. I. Davies, who is being posted to RCAF headquarters in Ottawa, and will be second in command to Col. P. S. Cooper, commandant.

Col. Price will be succeeded as commandant of the 2nd Battalion the Canadian Guards in Germany by Major A. D. Egan of Toronto, now brigade major of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade Group at Petawawa, Ont.

Major Egan will be promoted to lieutenant-colonel.

Trans-Atlantic TV 'Live' for Queen

LONDON (CP) — The possibility emerged Wednesday that the Royal Visit to Canada may be seen "live" on British television screens.

Speculation was sparked by a BBC notice inviting reporters to a hush-hush TV demonstration June 17. Said the BBC:

"We shall be announcing an important new development in television news transmission... We cannot give you details."

It was learned that the demonstration involves a way of transmitting television pictures across the Atlantic.

SOVIET CAPTAIN ESCAPES TO GIRL

Sweden Shields Red Lovers

KALMAR, Sweden (AP) — Swedish authorities Wednesday politely lowered an iron curtain around a Soviet navy captain and his Polish girl friend to prevent Russian diplomats from interfering with their love affair.

The couple arrived at the small fishing village of Kapelludden, on the east shore of the island of Oland, late Monday night after a daring nine-hour speedboat dash across the Baltic.

The Swedish foreign office turned down a request by the Soviet Embassy in Stockholm to get in contact with the 31-year-old captain, who deserted his ship and fled to Sweden because of his love for a beautiful, dark-haired Polish medical student.

The captain, whose name is withheld by the police, and the 22-year-old Polish girl, have applied for political asylum. The foreign office said it had asked the captain if he wanted to get in touch with the Soviet Embassy. He said he did not.

A 25-year-old Russian private, who assisted the captain in piloting the small Red Navy launch across the Baltic, said he preferred to be returned. He left the Kalmar police station late Wednesday night, accompanied by the two Soviet diplomats.

5 Men and a Girl To Fly the Queen

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF has announced the names of six crew members of the aircraft that will transport Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip on their tour of Canada this summer.

They are members of 412 Transport Squadron, the unit in charge of the air force's two big aircraft used for important persons—the C-5 and the Comet jet.

The man in charge is Wing Cmdr. William K. Carr, commanding officer of 412 Squadron based at Uplands Airport outside Ottawa.

A native of Grand Bank, Nfld., he won the Distinguished Flying Cross as a Spitfire pilot overseas in the Second World War. He captained the C-5 during the world tour of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the Canadian visit of Princess Margaret last year.

Only woman in the crew will be the stewardess, Cpl. Edith Cole, 27, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cole of Bella Coola, B.C.

The C-5, a four-engine job similar to, but larger than a North Star, will transport the royal party during the early portions of their visit in eastern Canada. It carried Princess Elizabeth on her 1951 Canadian tour and other members of the Royal Family since then.

The Comet jet, one of two the RCAF bought in 1953 but which were out of service undergoing modifications between 1954 and 1957, will be used on the long air journeys to Western Canada and later back to Eastern Canada and through the Maritimes. Cruising at 460 miles an hour, it has been refurnished for the comfort of the royal couple.

A transport department Viscount is to be used for the Queen's journey through northern Canada.

Several other RCAF aircraft also will be used during the visit to transport the royal entourage and for other supporting jobs in the complicated routine of an extensive tour.

Other members of the RCAF crew include:

Ft. Lt. Kenneth C. Pee, first officer, of Dauphin, Man., who has flown many dignitaries in the Comet in the last two years.

FO James L. Braiden, navigator, of Moose, Sask.

Ft. Lt. Hugh J. Filieul, radio officer, of Calgary, veteran of the Korean airlift.

Sgt. Arnold M. Peterson, engineer, of Camrose, Alta.

FAMED FLYING PRIEST DIES IN TEXAS CRASH

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An internationally known flying priest and three other persons were killed Wednesday when the priest's plane stalled and crashed shortly after takeoff.

Piloting the four-seat Cessna 170 was Rev. Ralph J. Diefenbach, 45, founding pastor of St. Theresa's Roman Catholic Church here.

Father Diefenbach, a wartime chaplain, gained fame in 1945 when he returned a noted religious relic—the hand of St. Stephen, first king of the Hungarian people—to Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty in Hungary.

Fluoridation Critics 'Nullifying Science'

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, B.C. (CP)—Dr. Lawrence E. Ranta, medical director of the Vancouver General Hospital, Wednesday criticized anti-fluoridationists who, in some communities, have been able to "villify and nullify scientific facts."

Speaking to the annual meeting of the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association here, Dr. Ranta told delegates "the effects of fluoridation and the need of human teeth for fluorides were simple discoveries from areas where fluorides were naturally present in water supplies."

ARCHITECT ELECTED

NANAIMO—Thomas B. McArravy, city architect, has been elected president of Nanaimo Symphony Society.

His first act as president was to name a committee to find a conductor to replace Maurice Kushner. Mr. Kushner, who founded the amateur orchestra 13 years ago, has resigned because of ill health.

'Triple R' Squads For Civil Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—The army plans to form as many as 70 mobile columns for its new role in civil defence. About 50,000 troops will be involved.

Some of these "Triple-R" columns—radiation detection, reconnaissance and rescue—will be of battalion group size, some 800 men. Some 45 columns will be drawn from the militia and the others from the regular army.

On Sept. 1 the army will become directly responsible for warning civilians of enemy air attack, determining the location of nuclear explosions, assessing the damage, carrying out initial entry into radioactive areas and conducting rescue and evacuation.

TOP-LEVEL CONFERENCE

These new army responsibilities were discussed here earlier this week at a conference of 10 of the army's highest-ranking officers, including Lt. Gen. S. F. Clark, chief of the general staff, and chiefs of the five army commands.

In its new CD role, the army will have power to direct police, fire and other municipal services in contaminated areas and to control the movement of traffic and people.

Headquarters of the various mobile columns likely will be located in towns and villages outside main target areas so the columns can swing into action quickly.

The mobile columns will not have a fixed strength but will comprise a number of rescue companies of some 150 men each, a support company and a headquarters company. The columns will be able to operate independently.

The rescue companies, drawn mostly from armored, infantry or artillery units, will be the "attacking" troops. The support company will comprise engineers, medical men, signals and the like.

Quiz Show Verdict Sealed By Court

NEW YORK (AP)—A grand jury presentation was handed up Wednesday, climaxing nearly nine months of television quiz show investigations. A judge, however, quickly ordered the findings sealed.

General Sessions Judge Mitchell D. Schweitzer received the presentation. His only explanation for ordering it sealed was that his right to accept it had been challenged.

SUPER-VALU

SPORTS DIARY

BY Jimmy Cannon

It was so long ago that the Broadway columnists were writing about Broadway then. Restaurants charged 55 cents for all you could eat. Joe Frisco laid off, but imitators did his act on practically every vaudeville bill. Book-makers handled the race-track action, instead of the machines. Murder, Inc. punks murdered people for a fee of $10 a corpse. And Frankie Carbo managed Popeye Woods, a squinty middleweight with a cowardly style.

It all changed but Carbo is everlasting. The kids abandoned Bing Crosby for Frank Sinatra, then switched to Elvis Presley. Dixieland lost its appeal to boogie-woogie and then jazz became progressive. Trotting was a hick's vice but now it's busting the metropolitan rubes. Charlie Lucky was deported, Frank Costello was shot in the neck and Frank Epickson did time. Milton Bette became Mr. Television when people tuned out Amos 'n Andy. Now cow-country law men dominate our parlors. But, whether a nation's dream girl is Greta Garbo, Rita Hayworth or Marilyn Monroe, Carbo still is the boxing commissioner of the underworld.

On the lam or on the town, lagged for homicide or reckless driving, in depression times or in a year when a buck buys a half-dollar's worth, under Republicans or Democrats, in peace time or war, working for Lepke or in business for himself, Carbo's nod is still a fight racket contract. Preliminary kids are pushed toward championships. Honest managers are corrupted. Jim Norris, who inherited $250,000,000, named a horse Mr. Gray to honor his snow-white mane. And the match-makers put his stiffs in when skillful fighter's can't pay their tabs for soap and towels at Stillman's.

In Chicago and down in New Orleans, in Cleveland and New York, in L.A. and St. Louis, this old gun-man of the Prohibition mob is the juice of the fight racket. Legit, business men front his pugs. Square managers sold out to put meat on the table. Newspapermen gave him a pass. Decent pugs, who could put him in a hospital in a scuffle, became tankers because he bullied them.

Old times or new, Mr. Gray is accustomed to be picked up and turned loose. Five times they printed him for murder and five times he made the street. Years ago they busted him for shooting a cab-driver but he did that kind of time standing on his head which is celebrated in the stud books by a race horse whose blood lines are pure.

On-tapped-telephones, chisellers on the scurry and big wheels with diamonds on their pinkies said okay, anything Frankie wants. On the duck, running from the feds and the locals, Mr. Gray had three big ones in small bills in the pocket of his tailor-cut suit.

Who pistol-broke Hymie Caplin's head in the argument over the Solly Krieger-Al Hostak fight? Who met Jake La Motta uptown the night before his fight with Billy Fox brought the district attorney to the Garden? Who had Ray Arcei-slugged with the lead pipe in Boston? Who sent Blinky Palermo into all those soft spots? Who tried to make the fix for Eddie Coco after he shot a bar-washer in the back in an argument over a dollar? Who once ran the middle-weights before he took over the lightweights? Who ripped off Phil Baker's toupee in the old Bert Froman Club on Fifty Second Street?

After a man had a couple of belts in him Bert Froman was Caruso. Ballads were his best hold and right now he can soften me up with "Home Town" which was his theme song when he opened his joint. Phil Baker, the comedian was on the floor doing a routine for nothing when Carbo sneaked up behind him.

The hood yanked off the actor's toupee and held it up, like an Indian proud of a taken scalp. Off the floor, through the closely packed tables, out the door and into a cab went the comedian, humiliated and terrified. It was an act of cruelty which disgusted even the gangsters who were there. Able Reles, who was booked to testify against Carbo in a murder case in California, went out the hotel window. Able never talked to a jury. And Mr. Gray was back in the fight racket again.

Kids go crazy from punches. Some are maimed and disfigured. Others are blinded. Many make a living from it. A few get rich. The fight racket should belong to those who bleed for their pay. But, if any owns it, from the time that Mike Jacobs ran shows in the old Hippodrome and Popeye Woods was on the cards, it is Mr. Gray. In the can or out, his influence still prevails.

Royals Advance To Shrine Final

VANCOUVER (CP) — New Westminster Royals moved into the finals of the Shrine soccer competition by beating the Continentals 4-1 in the semi-final here Wednesday night. A crowd of 2,000 watched the game.

Royals now meet Vancouver Halcyons in the final next Saturday at Vancouver. Each team has already won the cup once in its three-year history.

Mike Kuczi, with two, Art Hughes and Bob Lewis scored for Royals while Bob MacKay counted for Continentals.

Most of the action was confined to the latter stages of the game with three goals coming in the final five minutes of play.

Kuczi scored the only goal of the first half on a pass from Lewis and Hughes put New Westminster ahead 2-0 mid-way through the second half, after Continentals had missed several good chances to tie the score.

Lewis put Royals ahead 3-0 with five minutes remaining on a hard drive from 40 yards out, but Continentals' MacKay got that one back a minute later, heading in a corner from Tom Szabo.

Kuczi scored his second after dribbling around two Continental defenders.

DOW TALKS GOLF . . . NO. 23

Good Guide Needed

This is the 23rd of an instructional golf series, written for NEA Service and The Daily Times by Dow Finsterwald, U.S. Professional Golfers' Association champion who finished in the money in 22 consecutive tournaments. The series is designed to help the average golfer improve his game.

By DOW FINSTERWALD

A golfer must develop a fair degree of ability to read greens and get the feel of them.

This isn't as difficult as it sounds. It is mostly a matter of common sense.

I strongly recommend, whether you prefer a mallet or a blade-type putter, that it have a centre line on the top of the head. This serves as a guide to the mid-point on the clubface with which you want to contact the ball. You can't hit the ball with the toe one time and the heel the next and expect good results. The line on top of the head helps to line up the putt.

A second highly desirable feature in a putter is a handle that is flat on top (the portion away from the body). This is your assurance that the thumbs when placed on this surface will always be in the same position.

This eliminates a common trouble spot. With the thumbs thus on the shaft, as shown in the accompanying illustration, the palms of the hands face each other. The result is that the right hand works directly toward the hole or along the line of the putt, the left directly against it.

Rock's Display Helped Beer-Lover Alter Tune

By UP International

They say "don't knock the Rock" in Cleveland, and you can bet your bottom dollar they'll never do it again in Baltimore.

A Baltimore fan tried it Wednesday night and Rocky Colavito of the Indians responded by slamming four home runs in succession to beat the Orioles, 11-8, and knock them out of a tie for first place in the American League.

The fan needed Colavito and then spilled beer on him from the right field bleachers in the fourth inning.

GOT ANGRY

"That made me mad," said the usually easy-going Cleveland outfielder.

So mad, in fact, that the 25-year-old Colavito proceeded to become the second man in modern major league history to hit four homers in consecutive times up during a single game.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees did it in 1932 and before the modern era, Bobby Lowe of the Boston Nationals accomplished the feat in 1894. All told, eight players have hit four homers in a single game with Joe Adcock of the Braves the last previous man to do it in 1954.

Colavito drove in six runs in bringing his season home run total to 18. He drew a walk in the first inning, then belted his first home run of the game with an off-liner. Jerry Walker in the third; His next two homers came off Arnie Portocarrero, and his fourth came at the expense of Ernie Johnson with the bases empty in the ninth.

ABOUT FACE

When he went out to his right field position in the bottom of the ninth, the same fan who spilled the beer on Colavito was cheering him.

The White Sox took over undisputed possession of first place by defeating Washington Senators, 4-1; the Yankees scored their 11th victory in 13 games by beating the Athletics, 6-4; and the Tigers remained in a fourth-place tie with the Yankees by outlasting the Red Sox, 10-9.

San Francisco Giants climbed to within a game of the National League lead with an 11-7 decision over the Pirates; the Cardinals topped the Milwaukee Braves, 5-2; the Dodgers nipped the Phillies, 2-1, and Cincinnati Reds clipped the Cubs, 6-4.

LADDER DERBY

Of 10 salmon registered for the fourth week Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby, there was little doubt as to which belonged to the top rung.

Though only an association member since Sunday, Harry Willis checked in with a button-sized 23-pound, four-ounce spring to lead the parade.

There are still 29 runs to be filled before the week runs out Sunday.

Fourth week ladder:

1-Harry Willis	23.4
2-J. Stewart	18.9
3-Mrs. W. Caldwell	18.0
4-Mrs. R. J. Caldwell	9.3

Les Has Own Idea Of Boxla Fashion

O'Keefe's Take Top Berth; Snap Irish Unbeaten Skein

By DOUG PEDEN

O'Keefe's 13, Shamrocks 8

Les Norman is only a rookie in the Inter-City Lacrosse League, but he may be on the threshold of making a bit of boxla history.

The youthful New Westminster netminder may go down in the records as the player who forced league brass to write a new section in the rule book.

Unless Norman elects to remodel his shot-stopping equipment before O'Keefe's host Victoria Shamrocks at the Royal City tonight, the Inter-City loop commission can be expected to call a quick huddle and draft a regulation limiting dimensions of goal-tenders' arm pads.

Lanky Les, who started O'Keefe's out of the league cellar when he replaced veteran Stan Joseph between the pipes five games back, stepped out against the Shamrocks at Memorial Arena Wednesday night modeling the latest in lacrosse fashions.

Instead of the usual mode of pads, which more or less follow contours of bones and muscles around the arms, Norman sported a set of stiff fibre pads jutting sideways from shoulders to gloves. A quick guess placed the width of the devices at around 11 inches while the forearm pads of Shamrock goalie Gordie Johnson measured an even 4 1/2 inches.

Irish coach Norm Baker had his eyes on Norman's armor in a hurry, but a fast shuffle through the rule book failed to turn up anything to limit diameter of arm pads, such things having apparently been left to a goalie's conscience. League officials have dropped a few pointed hints of what they expect the well-dressed netminder will wear, but if Norman sticks with the new style tonight, there'll be some quick rule-book changes.

O'Keefe's Deserved Fifth Straight

Except for a possible psychological effect on the Irish,

Norman's forearm protection seemed of little extra advantage Wednesday as he helped New Westminster to a 13-8 triumph. O'Keefe's fully merited their fifth successive victory and the two points which shunted them into first place, one point in front of the Rocks and Nanaimo Labatts.

The best-conditioned boxla club to come out of New Westminster in several seasons, O'Keefe's started off as if they were going to run the youthful Irish into the floor and grabbed a 4-0 lead in the opening period.

Shamrocks began to get untracked in the second quarter, whittling one goal off the margin to start the third quarter on the short end of a 6-3 count.

Then they launched one of their typical comeback drives, keeping the 2,435 fans in an uproar as they outthrust O'Keefe's through the period to move within one goal, at 8-7, starting the final 15 minutes.

But this time they couldn't make one of the typical late surges that had kept them unbeaten through six successive games last through the home stretch although they were still within one goal with six minutes remaining.

New Westminster's Rudy Reisinger made it 9-7 at 7:35, but rookie Jim McNeill fired his third goal of the night to slice the margin to 9-8 one minute later.

Little Dribbler Was Big Crusher

Jack Byford got the crusher at 9:11, drilling a shot that trickled across the goal line after being partially stopped by Johnston. Jack Bionda, who had his stick snatched and had occasional trouble holding the ball with his new weapon but still looked like the most capable boxla player in captivity, picked up a loose ball and waltzed in to make it 11-8 just 12 seconds later.

That was when the Shamrock tyros showed their lack of experience. Hurrying too much in desperate attempts to set up scoring plays, they threw the ball away several times in the closing exchanges while O'Keefe's, playing for possession, took advantage of the breaks to wrap things up on tallies by Cliff and Don Sepka.

McNeill topped the Irish scoring parade with his three goals, improving Ron Jay's record in two tallies and Al Gill, again the best of the Rocks, Jackie Wilson and Derry Davies added single goals.

Bionda finished up with two goals and a pair of assists to run his league-leading totals to 23 and 46 points. The Sepka brothers and Reisinger also collected two goals apiece for O'Keefe's.

Norman, who at times appeared to be operating on sheer luck, and five times had shots bound clear off the pipes, wound up with a total of 29 saves. Johnston, having one of his cooler nights, stopped 23 of 36 New Westminster shots.

Shamrocks were again unable to inject much punch into their power play as each team was whistled for 10 minutes in penalties. The Rocks scored twice and gave up one goal when they had a manpower edge while O'Keefe's counted four times while the Irish were shorthanded.

Top Prizes Elude Victoria Riflemen

VANCOUVER — Victoria marksmen are still the "bridesmaids" of the 75th annual B.C. Rifle Association prize meeting at North Vancouver's Blair Range.

After scoring a near-miss in Tuesday's opening of competitions counting toward grand aggregate awards when three Islanders lost out in a shoot-off in the New Westminster Match—Victoria snipers were again edged in two of Wednesday's matches.

FRANK BALL THIRD

Frank Ball finished third in shooting for the Vancouver Corporation prize, scoring 71 out of a possible 75 to finish two points back of H. Maxon of Kelowna and one behind Vancouver's Gunnar Westling. Duncan Payne and Lieut. Fred Richardson, both of Victoria, wound up third and fourth in the Macdonald Tobacco match. Both had scores of 97x100.

Sixth in the Macdonald, with 96, was Ed Nicholson of Victoria, followed in 11th place

Nanaimo Returns To Action

Nanaimo Juniors have been taken back into the Senior "B" Lacrosse League fold.

The statement was made this morning by Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association president Doug Fletcher in announcing resumption of play between Hub City and Victoria teams. Tonight in Nanaimo the up-Island juniors will host Foul Bay, and a return game will be held Sunday at Stevenson Park, starting at 6 p.m.

Nanaimo was suspended by the league May 28 following a near riot between Junior Shamrock and Nanaimo players and fans.

Fletcher said meetings have been held with Nanaimo's executive this week and they gave sufficient assurance that such episodes will not be repeated.

Four inter-city games have been missed since the uproar.

Junior Swingers Try Again Today

The Victoria District Junior golf development tournament, postponed last week, was to be played this afternoon, starting at 4 p.m., at Victoria Golf Club. Forty learners have qualified for the final, 15 advanced players to tour an 18-hole course, while 25 beginners play a nine-hole final.

When Stan Angus of Trail defeated Colwood's Col. Larry McCooey in the B.C. Seniors final at Vancouver last week, he put the finishing touches on one of province's finest comeback stories.

Angus, a 56-year-old grandfather, was told in 1944 that he would never walk again on sound legs. He was hospitalized that year after his right leg was ripped apart by a shot-gun blast.

One doctor nearly decided to amputate the leg at the knee. Angus would not permit it.

An all-around sportsman, he was walking again with the aid of crutches two years later. He took up golf as an "excuse" to learn how to walk properly. The walking and golf improved until he reached championship calibre Friday.

SHORT CHIPS: Times Island Open champion Bill Wakeham is back to his old woods. . . William figures new woods aren't for him, especially after his three 80-plus rounds last weekend. . . The new Inter-Club League, which seems to be very popular with the city golfers, seems to be made to order for Colwood's Vince Clarkson. . . Vince is the only golfer with a perfect record in Inter-Club play. . . he's won all of his singles and has been on the winning four-ball side each time out. . . Bob Evans and Gord Whan have been Cowichan's main title threats in district tournaments in the past few years. . . But now that youthful Jim Swanson has enjoyed a measure of success in city tournaments, it wouldn't be surprising to see Duncan wind up with a major title one of these days. . .

Oak Bay's Graham Chambers and Robbie Robison successfully defended their senior buttons last week against Dr. Gill and George Goodwin. . . Members of the printing trades take time out Sunday, June 21, to take part in the 23rd annual Graphic Arts tournament. . . Vancouver City Amateur will be run off this Sunday at Quilchena. . . Jim Barry and veteran George Sparling meet this weekend to decide the Oak Bay club championship.

Favorites Roll Into Semi-Finals

A pair of popular champions are considered most likely to wind up as finalists in the annual city women's golf championship at Royal Colwood Golf Club, but the dark-horses are not to be discounted.

Defending champion Joan Lawson of Uplands took an easy 6 and 4 win over Lillian Thirlwell to continue in the vein promised by her 83 medal score, Monday.

But former titlist Margaret Todd of Victoria Club ran into difficulty.

Both Mrs. Todd and Mrs. G. Harris shot medal rounds of 86 Wednesday, with Mrs. Todd winding up the winner on the 18th in the closest match so far.

Leonard's Slugging Yarn Just Illusion, Say Police

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — Assassination threats and licence suspensions are the latest features of investigations into charges of hoodlum influence in California boxing.

In rapid-fire developments Tuesday: 1. The California State Athletic Commission heard a manager's report that he and heavyweights Reuben Vargas had been threatened with death; 2. The commission suspended the licences of manager Sam Boardman and his son Larry, who withdrew from a card at Hollywood's Legion Stadium, Saturday night; 3. At Los Angeles, the police chief, William H. Parker, said Jackie Leonard, who was to have promoted that fight, was not slugged by hoodlums June 3, but probably suffered a heart attack.

AN ILLUSION

The police chief said Leonard's story to be an "illusion", although the promoter no doubt honestly believed he had been attacked.

Leonard stuck by his version. "It's the only thing I can say," he told reporters. "In my mind, I was hit from behind as I closed my garage door, and hit again as I was down on my knees."

Local, state and federal agencies are co-operating in investigating the boxing situation. A federal grand jury is to sit in Los Angeles, June 23, as part of the investigation.

MYSTERIOUS CALLER

Bert Brodese of San Francisco, co-manager of Vargas, said a mysterious telephone caller last Feb. 10 said a contract for a return fight with Tony Anthony was being sent. Brodese quoted the caller as saying: "You'd better sign for that rematch or you'll find that bum (Vargas) and you both floating down the East River." Brodese said he received no such contract.

Vargas had outpointed Anthony in January at New York. Brodese was appearing before the commission seeking to have an agreement nullified under which Ralph Gambina of Los Angeles became a co-manager. The issue was postponed until the next meeting.

Sam Boardman testified that his son withdrew from Saturday's fight because of an injured hand and nose trouble. Art Ramponi, his opponent, has also withdrawn, saying he is ill.

Promoter Don Chargin, pinch-hitting for Leonard at the Legion, said Gambina had been representing Larry Boardman in California. He said Gambina told him Sam Boardman didn't want his son to fight because "Leonard is a stool pigeon."

Boardman denied the statement and denied knowing either Carbo or Palermo. The commission suspended the Boardman licence pending further investigation.

THIS BIRDIE DIDN'T COUNT

PENTICTON (CP) — Van Dewest got a birdie at the local golf course Tuesday—a startling.

Dewest drove off from the second tee and his ball caught the bird in the air. The bird fell dead.

St. Louis Snares Prized Backstop

ST. LOUIS (AP) — James T. McCarver of Memphis, Tenn., a left-handed hitting catcher sought by at least 10 major league clubs, has signed with St. Louis Cardinals. He is reported to have received a $50,000 bonus.

The Red Birds said the 17-year-old McCarver signed a Rochester contract and will be optioned to Keokuk, Iowa, of the class D Midwest League.

Vets Pad Lead In Senior Loop

Timely plate power and steady pitching by Stan Smith and Pat Rogers gave Naval Vets a little additional padding at the top of the Senior Amateur Baseball League as they whipped Eagles 7-1 Wednesday night.

Going into the tussle at Royal Athletic Park ahead of Eagles and Pages, who were tied for second place, Vets wound up an extra half-game ahead of Pages and two full games in front of Eagles, who skidded into third place.

Rogers earned the win, although Vets had an healthy lead when Smith was relieved in the bottom of the fifth.

Smith had not thrown the necessary five full innings required by rule to earn the victory when he was replaced.

Robin Barnes, hit solidly before being relieved by Steve Bishop in the fifth frame, was tagged with the loss.

League teams continue their busy week of activity tonight at Athletic Park. Vets will get a chance to add a little more padding to their first-place perch when they take on last-place Wakeman-Trimble at 7.

House Needs Permanent Speaker Says Professor

SASKATOON (CPI)—Dr. J. H. Aitchison, political science professor at Dalhousie University, Halifax, says the position of Speaker in Canada's House of Commons should be a permanent one, to guarantee impartiality.

He charged that Prime Minister Diefenbaker did not take this step before the last election because he wanted to hold out the speakership as a plum to attract support in Quebec.

"Is his failure to make a beginning since the election due to the possibility that it might be of service in the same way four or five years hence?" Dr. Aitchison asked.

Dr. Aitchison delivered a paper on the Canadian speakership to the Canadian Political Science Association meeting as part of the conference of Learned Societies.

The text was released to the press before delivery.

Actions by both Liberals and Conservatives indicate that Parliament is "sick," Dr. Aitchison said. He said nothing has been done to prevent a recurrence of the situation in 1956 when Speaker Rene Beaudoin was charged with being partial during the heated trans-Canada pipeline debate.

"In Canada a Speaker knows that however conscientious, competent, and impartial he may be, he will probably be superseded after the next general election."

This made it hard to get a competent man in the job. The prime minister was usually choosing his cabinet at the same time and the speakership was an alternative to cabinet office.

PICK BACKBENCHER

"The choice usually falls on a backbencher who can more readily cut his party ties than can one who has, or has had, strong claims to ministerial office."

Mr. Diefenbaker appeared ready to name a permanent speaker in 1957 when he offered the post to Stanley Knowles, Dr. Aitchison said.

"The failure after this of the prime minister to make a beginning during the election of 1958 suggests that he had come to realize the possible use of the speakership to win marginal support in Quebec."

The prime minister should have suggested that Speaker Roland Michener continue as long as he proved worthy of office, Dr. Aitchison said, and that he not be opposed in his constituency. It would have been difficult for other parties to refuse.

CITES CASE

On Dec. 13, 1957, the Conservative government appealed a ruling that was in keeping with one the Speaker had made a few days earlier, Dr. Aitchison said.

"This showed how little it really cared for the institution of Parliament. The defence it offered for its conduct was wholly spurious and, in view of the fuss the party had made about its concern for the proper functioning of Parliament, it was shameful."

The government had argued that since it was a minority government, it was in the hands of the House. But this was similar to a criminal saying he was absolved of a crime he was about to commit because others could stop him.

"The Liberals, in fleeing behind the curtains in sufficient numbers to enable the ruling to be reversed, are in no better case." They succeeded merely in demonstrating how demoralized and neurotically fearful they had become.

Press Hits Censorship

LONDON (Reuters)—The Commonwealth Press Union, at the close of a three-day conference, Wednesday approved a resolution expressing "grave concern" over reports of suppression of newspapers in Singapore and the expulsion of a British correspondent from Ghana.

The resolution, passed after spirited and lengthy debate, noted that eight periodicals alleged to be exercising a corrupting influence had been suppressed in Singapore.

The correspondent of a London newspaper had been deported from Ghana for alleged inaccurate reporting and failure to check with government sources the accuracy of its reports and to correct inaccuracies to which his attention had been drawn.

Dermot Morrah, chairman of the press freedom committee of the union, conceded that one of the suppressed Singapore newspapers, the English-language Weekender, "contains a very large number of portraits of ladies dressed for a warm climate" but he disputed that it was capable of undermining morals.

Morrah held that the proper course would have been to prosecute the editors for obscene libel if it was obscene.

CANADIAN DEFENDER

Gratton O'Leary of the Ottawa Journal referred to the action of the Pakistan government against newspapers there alleged to have been financed by foreign capital.

He said the CPU should not attempt to tell the government of Pakistan or any other state that it had no right to take action against newspapers in their country which were owned, paid for and supported by foreign governments and were apparently acting against the security of that state.

Judgment Reserved In $5,000 Claim

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane reserved judgment when hearing of a claim for $5,000, said to have been paid as commission on the contemplated 1957 sale of Victoria's Churchill Hotel, ended in Supreme Court here Wednesday.

The money is alleged to have been deposited with the agents, W. E. Sheriack Co. Ltd., when the hotel was put up for sale for $275,000.

After the deal fell through, Victoria Hotel Co. Ltd., 530 Bastion, representing the Churchill Hotel, sought return of the $5,000 "commission."

The agents refused, claiming the money was owed them and that it had been "earned."

Along with return of the $5,000, Victoria Hotel Co. also claimed 5 per cent interest on the sum, and costs. The agents entered a counter-claim for a similar amount also with costs.

ISLAND DIGEST

Record Meeting Addressed By New B.C. Liberal Chief

(From Duncan Bureau)

Cobbie-Hill Liberals turned out in record numbers Wednesday night to hear the new party leader, Ray Perrault, in his first open meeting on Vancouver Island since his election to the leadership.

George Whittaker, who introduced Mr. Perrault to the confident gathering of 70, said the young Liberal leader's dynamic reputation must have preceded him "because this is the first time in our history we have had to move out of the small community hall and into the large auditorium before the meeting was even under way."

Mr. Perrault reviewed developments since the recent Liberal convention at which he was elected party leader, and spoke of new interest and support for the party from all quarters.

"The word is out that the platform of the revitalized Liberal party springs from the need of the people and that this platform is clearly the best of any political party today," he said.

CCF leader Bob Strachan had made no comment on the new Liberal platform "because he knows it is better than anything the CCF has to offer. He knows it is better from the people's point of interest. He knows it is good old-fashioned radical reform Liberalism."

STARTED BY LIBERALS

Conservatives, both provincially and federally, had assailed the new Liberal platform. Deane Finlayson, B.C. Conservative leader, had stated that if the Liberals had been any good, they would have implemented all the proposals in the new platform during their 22 years in office.

"My goodness me, doesn't Mr. Finlayson realize there is a difference between provincial and federal politics," he asked.

"Just for the record though, let me point out that 80 per cent of all labor and social welfare legislation in this country was enacted by Liberal governments. The party that acted, not talked, was the Liberal party."

Premier Bennett, he said, had called the new Liberal platform "stupid."

"Here is the man who predicted we would have a telephone booth convention, and 500 delegates turned out for the greatest demonstration of resurgence the Liberal party has ever seen. But, my friends, nobody shoots at a dead duck."

Some of the "old-fashioned" reform the premier objects to, Mr. Perrault said, include proposals in the Liberal platform to increase B.C.H.S. coverage to cover chronic cases, improve mental health services, grant a 20 per cent increase in mothers' allowances and social services, eliminate tolls gradually, and launch a dynamic program of profit-sharing in industry.

DEBT BURNING HIT

Mr. Perrault also took a swing at Premier Bennett for his planned debt-burning ceremony.

"How, in all honesty, can we have such a thing as long as there are chronic illness cases, increasing municipal debt, and other silent needs. This is nothing to boast about. Let's take care of all the basic needs of our people first, and then have a big bonfire and

LIQUOR FINE FOLLOWS FATAL HUNTING MISHAP

NANAIMO — Joseph Henry Merlo was fined $300 here for supplying liquor to an Indian during a hunting trip when another Indian was killed.

Victim was Fraser Augustus, shot and killed Dec. 16. His brother, Joe Isaac Augustus, recently was convicted in Prince George of manslaughter, and was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary.

Evidence was shown in court here that Merlo had bought the liquor at Burns Lake while on the trip.

"This is an obvious case where liquor was to a large extent involved in the killing," Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts told Merlo, "and apparently you bought the liquor."

let everyone celebrate," he said.

He called for the setting up of a consumers' council and the introduction of legislation for a governing Consumer Protection Act.

The consumers' council, he said, would be a non-political group made up of representatives of consumer groups, economists, retail merchants "and all other people interested in ethical business practices."

The Liberal leader proposed that the Consumer Protection Act would provide for an examination and licensing system, investigation and prosecution and penal fines or sanctions.

"Such an act," he said, "would provide protection for the wage earner or home owner and also the honest tradesman, merchant or dealer."

"We don't want B.C. to be a happy hunting ground for swindlers and con men," he said, "but every day you read in the papers about more people being duped by fraudulent practices. Most business men are 100 per cent honest and they hate these kind of practices as much as anyone. What we must do is take action to protect the consumer from being gyped and swindled and restore public confidence in business."

His next Vancouver Island address will be at Duncan, June 23, and he will speak at Esquimalt June 24 and Victoria June 25.

He was accompanied at the Cobbie Hill meeting by Archie Gibbs, Liberal MLA for Oak Bay.

Kinsmen Thanked

DUNCAN — Members of Duncan Zenith-Gyro Club this week voted unanimously to send a letter of appreciation to the Kinsmen Club for staging the "coco" breakfast at the conclusion of the recent Gyro international convention here.

Convention chairman Bert Evans said a final report on the four-day gathering is not yet available. Many visiting Gyros had told him the convention was one of the best, he said, which would seem to prove that Duncan is a good convention centre.

Farmer Killed By Falling Tree

A 62-year-old Otter Point farmer died en route to hospital after he was struck down by a massive alder while clearing land alone Wednesday evening.

Frederick Harvey Young was pronounced dead on arrival at Jubilee Hospital after a 30-minute dash by West Coast Ambulance from Young's farm about five miles west of Sooke.

It appeared he was struck by the tree's heavy butt which snapped away from the stump as it was being cut.

Young was found by his wife Elizabeth and stepson David W. Stillman, who went looking for him when he failed to answer a call to supper about 5.30 p.m.

AT TREE FOOT

He lay, still conscious, across a tangle of broken branches at the foot of the broken alder.

Neighbor Louis Wymen, who lives across Otter Point Road from the Young house, said Stillman ran to him for help and to call the ambulance.

Wymen grabbed a stretcher from his barn and ran with him to the accident scene, about a quarter mile in thick brush back of the Young house.

Although still conscious, Young was in pain, complaining of sore ribs, Wymen said. Mrs. Young and the two men eased the injured man onto the stretcher while waiting for the ambulance and volunteer firemen.

The rescuers carried the farmer out of the woods and through an uneven meadow cleared by Young to reach the ambulance.

POLICE ESCORT

Young was then semi-conscious according to Sooke fire chief William Stephenson.

Firemen used a truck as an improvised ambulance because a new ambulance recently paid for by public subscription has not yet arrived.

City police escorted the truck along Douglas to the hospital because it had no alarm-sounding siren.

Sooke RCMP said Coroner, Dr. E. C. Hart probably would conduct an informal inquiry into the fatality.

Police said Mrs. Young was busy with supper at 3.20 and she heard her husband's power saw cutting a tree. When the sound stopped about 3.40 she went out and called her husband, who did not answer.

It was then Mrs. Young and David went to see what had happened.

CLEARING LAND

Young was in the midst of building a new house higher up the hill from his old log cabin and was still clearing his farm land out of the heavy undergrowth.

The Wymens are the closest neighbors in the remote area where even nearby houses are

UNIFORM POSTAL RATE ASKED FOR PENINSULA

Prospect Lake and District Community Association, fed up with penny-pinching Victoria firms, has asked Ottawa to establish a uniform postage rate for the entire Saanich peninsula.

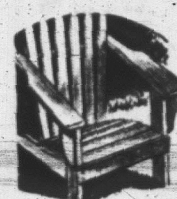

Rural residents have to pay two cents—one cent due and one cent penalty—when Victoria letters are delivered to them with only a four-cent stamp. An association spokesman said that at times up to 75 postage-due letters have been delivered in a single day to district residents.

Explosive Trial Gets White Jury

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—A male, white jury was selected Wednesday night to try four white youths in the rape of a Negro co-ed. The state shot for the death penalty and asked the jurors to leave their racial feelings outside the courtroom.

The gravity of the case and the conflicting opinions it has engendered in the segregation struggle were immediately pinpointed by State Attorney William D. Hopkins. As the trial opened his first question to the prospective jurors called at the outset was:

"Do you have any conscientious scruples against inflicting capital punishment?"

There were no positive replies, although no white man ever has been executed in Florida for raping a Negro.

The four prisoners looked on gravely as they heard the charge against them outlined—the rape last May 2 of a 19-year-old Negro college girl after she had attended a school dance.

Behind them in the all-white lower section of the court room were relatives of several of the defendants. Among them was the slight, brown-haired wife of the only married defendant, Willin T. Collinsworth, 23. Mrs. Collinsworth told a reporter she is standing by her husband.

The segregated Negro balcony was filled to capacity with more than 150 spectators before Judge William May Walker called the court to order.

The defendants, beside Collinsworth, are: David E. Beagles, 18, a high school senior; Ollie Stoutamire, 16, a motherless frail appearing boy; and Patrick G. Scarborough,

Alberta School System Attacked

EDMONTON (CP)—Provincial Liberal and Progressive Conservative leaders campaigned in central Alberta today, with only one week remaining before the June 18 provincial election.

Conservative chief W. J. C. Kirby spoke at Legal Wednesday night, while Liberal leader Grant MacEwan spoke at Edmonton and Stony Plain, criticizing the Social Credit government for not carrying a fair share of education costs.

"Education is constitutionally the responsibility of the province," he said, "but the growing mill rate makes it the biggest single item in municipal taxes." Mr. MacEwan promised that a Liberal government would assume a larger share of education costs.

Mr. Kirby said that a statement by Mr. Manning indicates the government might ignore recommendations of the Cameron Royal Commission on education. The commission, headed by Senator Donald Cameron, has not completed its report yet.

Mr. Kirby was replying to the premier's statement Monday night that Alberta has "no reason to apologize" for her system of education. Mr. Kirby said the premier has "no right" to suggest that the present system of education is acceptable.

Mr. Kirby said education in Alberta was "geared to the lowest common denominator," and called for the teaching of more of the fundamental subjects.

Work Halts in Canada's Hot-Spot

TORONTO (CP)—The grim words "no definite break in the heat wave is in sight for Southern Ontario" clattered from public weather office teletypes today.

They put the finger on Canada's hot spot—an area where temperatures have hung in the 90-degree range for three days.

More than 3,000 car assembly line workers at the General Motors of Canada Ltd. plant in Oshawa were sent home early Wednesday night. The move came after about 25 employees in the paint division walked off their jobs because of the heat.

The situation at Weston, a suburb of Toronto, was touchy as garbage collectors, street cleaners and other outside workers went on strike to back demands for union recognition.

WHY CASSANDRA WROTE

'A Preposterous Clown' at Piano

LONDON (AP) — Columnist William Neil Connor said today he thought an article he wrote about pianist Liberace "would reduce him to his correct proportions — as a preposterous clown."

Connor was testifying in a libel suit brought by the American pianist against the columnist and The Daily Mirror.

Liberace contends a column by Connor which The Mirror published in 1956 implied he was homosexual.

"The article in question was written, was it not, to express your detestation of Liberace?" asked the entertainer's chief counsel, Gilbert Beyfus.

"Dislike," Connor replied. "I did not detest Mr. Liberace. In his personal capacity he is entirely unknown to me, but I strongly dislike what he does on the stage, in the concert hall and on television."

Q. "It was intended to hold him up to hatred, contempt and ridicule?"

A. "I don't know whether it was. I wrote what I thought about it. I can't accept any legal interpretation of it. I do not think any person reading the article, and believing it to be true, would consider Liberace to be a hateful person."

Q. "You don't think he would be a contemptible figure in the eyes of a reader?"

A. "I don't know about that. I think he would become an unworthy figure. I thought the article would reduce him to his correct proportions — as a preposterous clown."

'Sacred Occasion Was Misused'

Connor said he objected particularly to a TV show in Britain in which Liberace played Ave Maria while a woman dressed as a nun began to weep in front of a figure of the Madonna.

"I felt," said the columnist, "that a sacred occasion was being misused."

Beyfus cited the passage in Connor's article describing Liberace as "the summit of sex, the pinnacle of masculine, feminine and neuter all that he, she or it can ever want."

Connor testified Wednesday he used those words only to show that Liberace appeared to attract all kinds of people.

"You are saying," Beyfus asked, "that these words were not meant to suggest that Liberace was a homosexual but were intended to describe the universality of his appeal?"

A. "Yes."

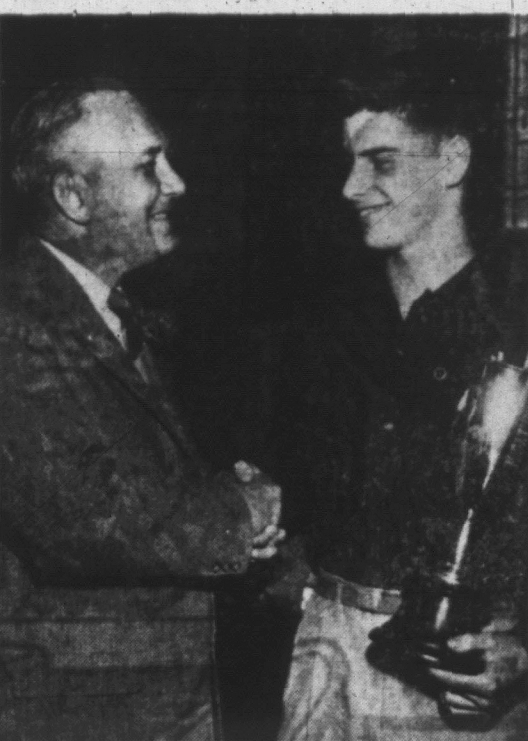

Q. "Was the word 'it' thrown into the phrase for confusion?"

A. "No."

Q. "It doesn't mean to suggest that the poodle sits up and the cat purrs and the budgeter goes 'tweet, tweet' when the TV is turned on and Mr. Liberace's face appears?"

A. "No. It is part of the continuity of the theme of the totalitarian appeal of Liberace which transcends anything that any other entertainer has done."

He goes into a place like Madison Square Garden (capacity 20,000) where there are 60,000 people, a most hostile and untamable place, and then, armed with nothing except a piano, a candelabra and possibly his mother, attracts a whole community, defying all the critics and getting everybody of every age and every sex."

AT HISTORIC SEAWAY OPENING

Naval Spectacle for Queen

OTTAWA (CP)—Spectators will be treated to a naval spectacle never before seen in Canadian waters following the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway by Queen Elizabeth and President Eisenhower on June 26.

The royal yacht Britannia, with the two heads of state aboard, will take a 21-gun salute from 16 Canadian and United States warships during a sail past in Lake St. Louis, Royal Visit headquarters has announced.

The Queen and the president will board the Britannia at the approaches to the St. Lambert Lock near Montreal after formally opening the seaway in the morning. The president is to remain aboard until late in the afternoon when the yacht reaches the lower Beauharnois Lock, 32 miles west of Montreal.

In the afternoon the 16 ships will be anchored on the north side of Lake St. Louis, between Ile Perrot and Beauharnois, dressed with flags and all manned to "cheer ship" as the Britannia passes down the line.

A 21-gun salute, with all ships firing simultaneously, will be fired as the Britannia approaches HMCS St. Croix, first ship in the line of alternating USN and RCN ships. The sail past, scheduled to start at 4 p.m., will last 20 minutes.

Canadian units participating are the destroyer escorts St. Croix, Athabaskan, Micmac, Cayuga, Crescent and Restigouche, and the frigates Fort Erie and Swansea, all of the RCN Atlantic fleet.

The American ships, part of a 28-unit task force of the U.S. Atlantic fleet to operate this summer in the Great Lakes, include the 17,200-ton heavy cruiser Macon. The Britannia will be escorted by the U.S. destroyer Dupont and the Canadian destroyer escort Kootenay.

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton fought hard Wednesday for passage of the sewer by-law when ratepayers cast ballots June 20.

He told some 200 persons at

Gordon Head community hall that the present 7,000 residents in the five-square-mile area east of Cedar Hill Road would swell to 30,000 if the by-law is passed.

The sewers would benefit the whole municipality because it would provide the start for economic development of a single area instead of continuing growth of urban sprawl.

He also said the sewer program would protect property values which are dropping in some areas served by small lot septic tank systems due to saturation of the ground.

"Property values have dropped to where people today can not sell for the amount of the mortgage against them — and that will happen everywhere in small lot septic tank development," he warned.

Good Financial Start In College

Only a week ago he was declared winner of the $150 Jaycee Civic Affairs Scholarship, which will give him a good boost into Victoria College next year.

Although he is undecided about his career at present, he leans toward the pure sciences, particularly chemistry.

Tom won his large mahogany and silver trophy for his outstanding ability in track, basketball, soccer and particularly lacrosse.

He ran the medium distances for Vic High in the Inter-High Track Meet and represented the school in basketball as a member of the provincial champion Totems and on the soccer team. He is rated by many as the most outstanding rookie with the Victoria Shamrocks in the Inter-City Lacrosse League this year.

A highlight of the ceremonies was the presentation to retiring principal Harry Dee of a monogrammed electric toaster.

Accepting the gift amid thunderous applause, Mr. Dee addressed his assembled students as "the finest group of students anywhere in the country. And I sincerely mean this," he added.

Happy Memories of 32 Years Work

Mr. Dee, who will be moving up to a supervisory position next year, said of his 32 years at Victoria High: "It's been a happy life, and I do hope what lies ahead is going to be happy too."

"I shall always remember the chalky smell of a classroom."

council president-elect Dave Haegert, brother of former president Joe, with the traditional gavel.

Also honored were seven teachers who are leaving the school, some only temporarily. Mrs. Nora Wallace received a corsage, while Alan Batey, Kenneth Bloomfield, Robert Hunter, Doug Smith, P. C. Routley and Tom Tucker all were presented with lapel carnations.

Miscellaneous awards went to Penny Tisdall and Horace Mayea (drama); Carolyn McCammon (band); Anne Sulsbury and Pat Paterson (Carnegie); Steven Hodge (biology); Margaret Lendrum (science); Carole James (music); Grace Maurice (French); Charlie Brown (mathematics); Pat Cooper (art); Ken Barlow and Paul Goodman (automotive); Jeff Eng (chess); Pat Service (valedictorian).

Penny Tisdall won the Activity Plaque, while activity pins went to Ariene Bosson, Sue Humphries, Pat Lore, Terry Marlow, Sylvia Mobey, Pat Paterson, Phyllis Puyum, Diane Pryznik, Bryan Ralph, Pat Service, Malcolm Shanks, Anne Sulsbury, Penny Tisdall, Ivan Waldal and Bruce Warburton.

Slim Chance Of Flooding

The spring runoff in B.C. at its present rate does not have the makings of a dangerous flood situation, but it all depends on the weather, according to a provincial water rights branch spokesman.

He said a continued hot spell which would melt the snow still existing above the 5,000-foot level in the various watersheds could bring a simultaneous runoff which could spawn floods in the valleys below.

But the outlook, so far as it can be determined at present, is for a normal runoff period.

The spokesman said surveys showed an above-normal pack of snow above the 5,000-foot level, particularly on the Columbia, Kootenay and Okanagan watersheds and also along the route of the Fraser River.

Little if any snow has melted as yet above the 6,500-foot level, he said.

Battalion Joins Reds

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A pro-Communist Pathet Laos battalion which refused to be incorporated into the Royal Laos Army has escaped to Communist North Viet Nam, an army spokesman said Tuesday.

Loyal troops had tried to surround and confine the 750-man battalion in the dense jungles of northern Laos, but the army spokesman said it was better to let the battalion go than force it into the royal army where its anti-government views might have done harm.

Assault Suit Filed

VANCOUVER — A suit was entered in B.C. Supreme Court here Wednesday against city constable John Flaten by Gordon Recknagel, who claimed unstated damages for alleged bodily harm, false imprisonment and false arrest March 7.

Constable Flaten was given a one-year suspended sentence and ordered to post a $300 bond after he was found guilty of assault causing bodily harm.

Trial Protest

VANCOUVER — Lawyer David Sturdy demanded Wednesday an end to the "improper delay" in bringing to trial a 15-year-old boy who has been in custody since Jan. 26 on a charge of murdering waiter Eddie Beresford.

In a telegram to G. D. Kennedy, deputy British Columbia attorney-general, Mr. Sturdy said if the "intolerable uncertainty" for the boy is not ended he will take habeas corpus or "other process to correct your improper delay."

TOWERING PILLAR OF LIGHT visible for miles around could be made of the city's water tower if a decision to illuminate it during the three-day royal visit here is made. City engineer James Garnett (right) and public works superintendent Ray Byers are shown examining the Laurel Place site, off Rockland, as an illumination platform. Tower, rising 130 feet above the hill, is the highest landmark in Greater Victoria and recently was re-surfaced and painted. Cost of illumination is being estimated by engineer.

... HERE
With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria troops polishing up for the Royal visit next month may benefit from the memories of old soldiers who lined our streets during the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in 1939.

It seems we had some 500 troops to cover the entire route—and this meant dashing from one street to another and reforming ahead of the Royal car.

"We doubled down side streets and back alleys to get to our next position," said a veteran of the Canadian Scottish, "and at one point we were still scrambling into line as the King and Queen came round the corner."

"The King saw us and laughed at our confusion."

Many city folk are indignant because no one would sponsor Miss Victoria, 19-year-old Vivi Petersen, and her two princesses after they had been invited to take part in the Portland Rose Festival this week.

Lack of funds was the reason given.

"We deserve to be known as the meanest city in North America," commented Joe Chandler of 1453 Dallas, "and we probably shall be."

When he isn't receiving guests at the Empress Hotel desk, Ken Underwood spends happy hours working on his motor launch Freedom II out at Brentwood.

He has just returned to duty after two days of scraping and painting.

The white man may be the world's heaviest smoker but he didn't invent one new method of smoking, says provincial anthropologist Mike Kew, who has been studying the use of tobacco by North American Indians.

He finds that the Indian invented the cigaret (using part of the corn plant for paper), the cigar and the pipe.

He had one other method which has never been adopted by white men—inhaling the smoke through a long hollow tube.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Ten-year-old Wolfgang Bradasch relapsed into "poor" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today with first and second degree burns covering more than 75 per cent of his body.

The boy was admitted in poor condition after suffering burns in a gasoline fire at his rural Saanich home Sunday, but was reported "improved" Wednesday after a good night.

Fine of $250 was levied in city police court today on Edward Ball, 896 Falaise, after he pleaded guilty to an impaired driving charge.

Offence occurred late Wednesday on Humboldt Street.

A bylaw authorizing the Ross Bay cemetery committee to remove or relocate dilapidated headstones and curbs at untended graves in the cemetery was to be introduced in city council today as part of the committee's recent campaign to eliminate untidy areas.

Tide-washed skeleton found on Klover Beach caused a flutter of excitement in Esquimalt today.

A citizen called Esquimalt police to say they thought the bones looked human and a constable hurried over to have a look.

The verdict: goat or deer carcass, possibly, but not human.

Police were to get a positive identification by zoologist Dr. Clifford Carl of the Provincial Museum.

Three persons were treated for minor injuries in St. Joseph's Hospital shortly after midnight when the car in which they were riding was in collision with a BCE bus at Pandora and Government.

They were Beatrice McNaughton, 22, of 3245 Carman; Constance Smith, 23, of 1054 Princess; and Jack Pulyk, 27, of 723 Yates.

The bus was driven by William Hele, 753 Kings. There were no passengers aboard.

Climax of a years-long battle for wide-open gasoline station hours was to arrive today when city council introduces a bylaw removing restrictions. A petition of some 48 station owners, believed to be a majority of city operators, requested elimination of the present 6 p.m. closing requirement.

The Bishop of Southwell, England, Rt. Rev. Frank Barry and Mrs. Barry, were guests of Archbishop Harold Sexton and Mrs. Sexton at lunch today.

The bishop is now on a lecture tour of Australia, New Zealand and Canada. He spoke in Vancouver last Monday and has a number of speaking engagements in Toronto. He is holidaying here.

An excursion to Vancouver will be held by members of the Old Age Pensioners' Association No. 1 June 17.

Members will meet at 7:30 a.m. outside the Knights of Pythias Hall to board buses.

A meeting of the Lions Club of Victoria will be held at 12 noon Friday in the Empress Hotel.

Beach House Planned

Jaycees Allot Fair Proceeds

Work began today on drawing up the plans for a new, tree-shrouded $25,000 public beach house at Elk Lake, to be built by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce with funds from their May industrial and agricultural exhibition.

It will be ready in time for the late summer rush and provide services for a beach crowd of at least 1,000 sun-seekers.

Designed by city engineering department, the beach house 150 feet back from Hamsterley Beach will be a combined dressing room and comfort station, with sewage disposal facilities large enough for further expansion.

TO EXPRESS THANKS

City Engineer James Garnett described the building "as 'vandal-proof'."

Nestling among Douglas fir and cottonwood, the 1,400 square foot beach house was decided on by Jaycees as "our thanks to the people of Victoria for their support of our May fair and other projects."

"We wanted to do something that would benefit a majority of Victorians," said Jaycee residing president Ray Rawnsley. "This Elk Lake building is in line with our idea for a centennial project."

Project chairman is Ira Hill, who said today the new beach house will be a great improvement on present facilities at Hamsterley Beach.

PROJECTS DELAYED

Ald. M. H. Mooney, representing Victoria-Saanich beach and parks committee which will administer the building, praised the Jaycees for their decision to undertake the beach house project.

However, the decision means other Jaycee projects originally planned for this year will now have to be postponed.

These include providing additional equipment for Jubilee Hospital and beautification of Douglas Street from the Roundabout to Tolmie, to embrace boulevards, new trees and better lighting.

"Meanwhile this Elk Lake improvement is our way of showing our appreciation to Victorians who have been behind us in all our recent projects," said Jaycee president, elect Peter Forward. "We know they will like it."

The new building will be put up near the present dilapidated comfort station, which will be dismantled.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Jeat Singh, 583 Dupplin, over 30 mph and passing over double line, $25 and $15.

SHARON KIRK
... Royal command

TO WINNIPEG

City Dancer To Perform For Queen

Sharon Kirk, 16-year-old Victoria ballet dancer, will give a command performance before the Queen and Prince Philip in Winnipeg on July 24.

She has been invited to appear with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet in a special program planned for the royal visit and will begin rehearsing with the company July 1.

The feature performance will be the ballet "Finishing School" which is set to music by Strauss.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorraine Kirk of 2527 Nottingham, Sharon attended Oak Bay High School as usual this morning although she was greatly excited by the news.

"Dancing is her whole life and she intends to make a career of it," her mother told The Times. "She will be rehearsing in Winnipeg for nearly four weeks before the command performance."

Born in Edmonton, Sharon has been dancing since she was four years old and is a pupil of Victoria teacher Wynne Shaw.

She has already won several honors. At the Spokane Music Festival last May she received the Young Choreographers Award. At the B.C. Dance Festival in Vancouver she was selected as the Most Promising Dancer of the year.

Last year she was awarded an IODE scholarship at Summer School in Vancouver.

Sharon is also a student of the piano but devotes most of her spare time to ballet.

"Later she hopes to go to Europe to train in some of the leading ballet centres there," her mother said.

10 Doctors From Victoria Off to U.K.

Attending the joint Canadian and British Medical convention in Edinburgh June 18 will be at least 10 Victoria doctors.

Headed by B.C. Medical Association president, Dr. Jack P. Tysoe of Victoria, most will leave Vancouver Saturday by plane with over 80 other physicians and wives from all over the province.

The group will travel in a specially chartered plane over the Pole to Amsterdam and June 16.

Purpose of the convention, a B.C. society official said, "is to give Canadian and British doctors the opportunity to keep abreast of new scientific developments in the field of medicine."

Among those attending from Victoria will be: Doctors Vincent W. Smith, Jack N. Edmison, Gavin Chisholm, Simon Marinker, A. N. Reid, H. Maitland Young, R. A. Gale and J. F. B. Cupples.

The first group will return July 27 following the end of business but the second group will holiday in Europe until August 24.

Prize-Giving Today

Winning groups that participated in the May 24 weekend parade were to receive their prizes today in city council chamber from Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of the Greater Victoria celebrations association.

5 Hit by Poison Oak

Full-Scale Probe On 3-Leaved Plant Causing Trouble

Victoria parks superintendent W. H. Warren will launch a full-scale investigation into a suspected revival of poison oak, believed the cause of the sufferings of five Victorians.

All had had contact with the Mount Douglas area recently.

Sandra Cameron, 1504 Mount Douglas Cross Road, a T. Eaton Co. employee, is home from work with her face swollen and eyes nearly closed. She and a friend, Lauren Bennett, Martha Crescent, feel they may have touched the plant while going down to the beach at Mount Douglas.

Miss Bennett also suffered itches and swelling, but not as severely as Miss Cameron.

NECK BLISTERED

Mrs. L. A. Bradley, 4235 Cedar Hill Road, reported her three-year-old son has blisters at his hairline and on his neck, apparently as a result of playing in the bush near her Mount Douglas district home.

An unidentified woman reported to provincial authorities that her two children were stung by what her doctor described as poison ivy.

Dr. Adam Szczawinski, provincial museum botanist, suggested poison oak, not in evidence here since 1920, might have returned to the district. He discounted the report that poison ivy had caused some suffering, since it does not grow here.

EFFECTS VARY

He said, though, that signs and symptoms are similar, and that effects will vary in severity between sufferers.

Mr. Warren, who has jurisdiction over Mount Douglas Park, said he will contact all the reported victims in his effort to locate the cause of the trouble.

According to Dr. Szczawinski, a simple rule to follow where poison oak is suspected is—"leaves in three, let it be!"

Contact with the leaves causes itches and blisters, which break to form a scab. Results of stings show about 24 hours after contact, thus making the plant hard to locate.

At one time it grew in Victoria, on the Saanich Peninsula and in the Gulf Islands, but there has not been a report of it since 1920, and it was believed extinct here.

Poison oak may be a straggly, erect shrub or more commonly a stout climber. Leaves are grouped in three. They are roughly round in outline, but sometimes irregularly lobed or toothed, often slightly resembling an oak leaf. Leaves are glossy and leathery.

There are greenish white berries, in season.

Victims of stings should wash affected parts with a soap solution and seek medical treatment.

Any contact with poison oak should be reported to the provincial authorities.

SAMPLE OF POISON OAK held by UBC Botany student Suzy Taylor of Vancouver, who works at Provincial Museum here, still contains poisonous qualities. Botanist, Dr. Adam Szczawinski, was infected while mounting the specimen, got rash around mouth and blistered fingers, yet foliage was picked over 40 years ago. The poison is an oil which is reported to be able to penetrate even leather shoes and can be carried in soot particles from land-clearing fires. (Times Photo.)

Last Tribute Set Saturday For Veteran

Funeral services for former British Army Regimental Sergeant-Major, twice decorated Duncan Stuart, 365 Arnold, will be held Saturday.

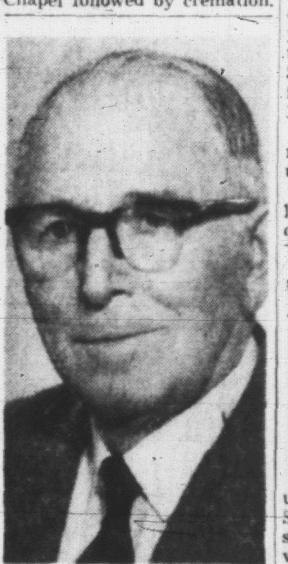

The 88-year-old man, who served in the King's Own Scottish Borderers for 21 years, died Wednesday at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Holder of the Military Cross and the Military Medal his service posts included West Africa, Jamaica and Bermuda.

After retiring from the army he joined the Canadian Pacific Railroad police force in Calgary then moved to Victoria in 1938.

He was a life member of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans' Association and a member of the Red Chevron Association.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. at McCall's Funeral Chapel followed by cremation.

RCN Oregon Flap Starts 2 Probes

Two investigations are underway today as the "goodwill" visit of six RCN destroyer escorts to Portland, Ore., boils over into an international incident.

The U.S. Coast Guard and RCN Pacific Command here both said they are making a full investigation into charges of damage to oaks and other property caused Tuesday by the Second Canadian Escort Squadron sailing up the flooding Willamette and Columbia Rivers.

An RCN spokesman said no comment could be made until more details were known. The ships are visiting Portland in connection with the city's famous Rose Festival.

Fishermen and farmers have threatened to file suits for damage which they said was caused by huge waves in the wake of the ships, led by HMCS Assiniboine.

The corps of engineers said waves had torn out all but 300 feet of a 2,600-foot-long revetment on Saucies Island, north of Portland.

Bank fishermen said 12-foot waves from the Canadian destroyer escorts completely washed over two fishermen.

Captain J. C. Pratt, who commanded the Canadian ships, expressed regret for the damage but denied any blame. He said there was a Columbia River pilot aboard every ship and "we stuck to the speeds they dictated to us."

VISITOR OPTIMISTIC

U.S. Unemployment Figures 'Misleading'

There is little evidence of unemployment in the United States—at the present time, says Dudley S. Bates regional vice-president of the New York Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

"Our newspapers are simply bulging with Help Wanted advertisements," he said. "The Los Angeles Examiner recently carried 15 pages of them in one day."

Mr. Bates said government statistics showing unemployment in the U.S. are "misleading."

"Too many people registering as unemployed are looking for easier employment or have no particular desire to work at all. Many are just changing jobs."

Mr. Bates said there is considerable industrial expansion across the United States and "a growing feeling of optimism in business circles."

He added that the New York Life Insurance Co. sold more insurance in April and May last year than in any two months in its history.

"Our business during those months was up 5 per cent on that of April and May last year."

Mr. Bates is one of 325 top insurance men now attending a four-day convention of New York Life at the Empress Hotel.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me to whom to write to find out what prison a member of my family is detained at here in Canada?—J.V.

A. If your relative is in a federal penitentiary for a sentence of two years or more, write the Commissioner of Penitentiaries, Justice Department, Ottawa, Ont. for information. If, however, he is in a provincial jail for less than two years, you would have to write each provincial attorney-general's department with your query.

Q. Where do I write to get a pen pal who lives in Texas or Colorado?—M.W.

A. Write a letter to the Editor, San Antonio News, San Antonio, Texas, or to the Editor, Denver Post, Denver, Col., and ask them if they will run your request for pen pals in the newspaper.

Anyone wishing a question answered in this column should send the question to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor, questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve problems or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

B.C.'s New Labor Laws Sparked By Bosses, CLC Officer Claims

New B.C. labor legislation, Bill 43, is the brain-child of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, not the provincial government, a top Canadian Labor Congress official said in Victoria today.

"For Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to claim it as his own legislation is just pure malice," said George Home, director of political education for the CLC.

In Victoria to address a meeting of local union political action committees, Mr. Home said controversial Bill 43, which handles certain labor activities was "only in line with similar legislation to be found across Canada and every state in the U.S."

"Bill 43 is a weapon invented by the CMA to help finance the political parties which introduce it," he said.

"But the CLC is behind the workers of B.C. and we'll do everything we can to correct the situation at the next election."

Mr. Home, former secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said interest by Victoria and B.C. unions in political activity had "increased tremendously" since introduction of Bill 43.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A Home Vacation Can Be Fun—And It's Relaxing, Too

Was it a nervous breakdown or a vacation you had last year? Sometimes we feel more like we had had a nervous breakdown rather than a vacation.

Sometimes the things you did and the things you saw make the real exhaustion of certain vacations worth while. However, I think that often folks return home realizing that the trip they took was a mistake.

This may be due to many factors. Perhaps you took your little children with you and found the experience hectic and wearing, with the whole family's nerves on edge most of the time and the children ill part of the time.

Maybe you tried to go too far in too short a time, driving hundreds of miles on too many days. Maybe you spent more money than you could afford and this added a strain to the trip and dulled the pleasure of it. Trips have a way of costing much more than we think they will.

If you have decided to stay at home this year, you probably can have a wonderful time for about one-third the cost of any trip. Many couples who cannot afford competent care for their children for two weeks can afford it for a couple of weekends.

In some town, city or village near you there is a hotel or an Evening Auxiliary, St. David's By-The-Sea, strawberry jamboree, Saturday, church hall at Cordova Bay, from 5 to 9 p.m. Games, strawberry short cake, hot dogs, ice cream, soft drinks. The Melish performing dogs will entertain at 7 p.m.

that important opportunity to rediscover one another as individuals and have carefree fun together.

If you put your mind to it you also will discover that there are many interesting spots nearby. Check with your local bureau of travel and find out if there are any exciting places just around the corner from home.

You might want to go there for only a weekend and devote the week to play activities and relaxation at home.

A couple of weekends away, or even one long weekend, and some extra help with the children and housework and cooking, sunning in the backyard and sleeping as late as one wishes, might be the very best of all vacations.

Anyway, whatever you do I hope you have fun!

Soroptimists Name New Officers

Miss Muriel Vincent was installed president of Soroptimist Club of Victoria, following the annual banquet in Oak Bay Beach Hotel, Wednesday evening. Other officers are Mrs. Nan Pohl, first vice-president; Miss Florence Daniels, second; Mrs. Janet Prentice, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Alice Kimmitt, recording secretary; Miss Marion Storey, treasurer; Mrs. Jean Boyd and Miss Lillian Milne, directors.

Miss Amy Hall conducted the installation.

Retiring president, Mrs. Margaret Dockrill, presided at the banquet and welcomed three new members, Miss Mary Morrison, Miss Miriam Simpson and Miss Marjorie Holmes. Miss Storey conducted the welcoming ceremony. Miss Ella Walker presented Mrs. Dockrill with her past president's pin.

"Challenge of Change" was subject chosen by guest speaker Miss Mary Richmond, who presented some problems and conflicts developing from the "speed of change" in this present age.

In every phase of work there is a "desire to go modern," the speaker pointed out, but in our haste we "often fail to interpret our work to others in business and the professions and to the public."

In her own profession of nursing, Miss Richmond said that mechanical gadgets, increased paper work, changes in the kinds of diseases to be treated and in the methods used, had created a new—and impersonal—attitude between nurse and patient.

Today, the same thing can be found in almost every business and profession, she believed.

"We must learn to prepare for this challenge of change," she said, "and we must find ways and means to predict further changes that will inevitably come."

The speaker was introduced by Miss Neil Jones and thanked by Miss Hilda Hesson.

Miss Edith Pritchard, president-elect of the Soroptimist Club of Courtenay, came from the up-Island city to attend the annual banquet of the Victoria Club in Oak Bay Beach Hotel, Wednesday evening. She is the guest of Mrs. Ruth Greenslade at her home on Cadboro Bay Road for a few days.

A no-host dinner party was held recently at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ross G. Sinclair on Estevan Avenue. Guests were Dr. Sinclair's fellow members of the resident medical staff of St. Joseph's Hospital. They were Dr. and Mrs. Z. Tallan, Dr. and Mrs. W. Cunningham, Dr. and Mrs. D. Kinloch, Dr. and Mrs. J. Peterson and Dr. and Mrs. T. Millar.

DEAR ABBY...

Play It Cool, 'Friend'!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am about to break off a friendship of long standing with a very good friend of mine because her husband tried to start something with me when she was called out of town to attend her ailing mother. What I want to know is: Should I tell my friend what happened? She's crazy about her husband and I hate to disillusion her. What excuse should I give her for ending our friendship if I don't tell her the truth?

OLD FRIEND

DEAR OLD: (and your problem isn't new, either) Any

"friend" who would give a wife this kind of news could double for an enemy. Let your friend live with her "illusions," limit your association with her to "daytime get-togethers," and avoid her husband.

DEAR ABBY: In 1954 my husband went to a doctor for a check-up. The doctor told him he needed an operation. My husband never went back. It's been almost five years already and my husband says he never felt better. What do you make of this? MRS. J. H.

DEAR MRS. J. H.: Either your husband didn't need the operation in the first place or he still needs it. He should re-check with his doctor at once.

DEAR ABBY: I'll soon be married 16 months and the man I married believes it's the woman's place to make the living. We were married four months when he quit his job and said he had no intention of working any more. I bring home $68.70 a week and he says that's plenty for both of us. He's sleeping when I go to work in the morning and watching TV when I come home at night. I have to get the supper. I am 41 years old and he is 34. He is very kind and loving. Should I overlook his laziness?

HELP WANTED

DEAR "HELP": If you are able to "overlook" this kind of laziness you are more generous than most women. You have brought yourself a "kind, loving and lazy man" and who (beside yourself) can say you made a bad bargain?

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a girl I love very much. She is 16 and thinks she is pregnant. I don't know what to do because I am younger than she is and couldn't support her if I did marry her. She is scared to death to tell her folks and I am more so. Is there any possible way for her to find out if she is pregnant without waiting six weeks? She is torturing herself. Please tell us what to do right away.

SERIOUS TROUBLE

DEAR SERIOUS: You must tell your parents at once and she must tell hers. They are your best friends and the only ones who can help you. DO NOT CONSIDER ANY OTHER SOLUTION!

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARVIN: You're robbing Peter to pay the palbearers. Quit working so hard.

AUTOMATIC GAS HEAT IS YOUR BEST FURNACE BUY

WHY

Because the domestic gas rate for heavy-use customers has been reduced

ECONOMY with GAS

You pay only for the gas you use—after you use it. Installation costs are lower, and a gas furnace has a long life. You don't pay for storage bins or tanks, or tie up money in idle fuel.

AUTOMATIC heat with GAS

With an automatic-controlled thermostat the heat turns itself down at night, at whatever hour you wish. Then, at the time you want in the morning, the furnace starts warming your home before you get up.

CONVENIENCE with GAS

No furnace to tend morning and night, no ashes to haul, no delivery problem. You never have to think about calling, and ordering more fuel—never have to worry that your supply of gas might run out.

FASTER heat with GAS

A flick of the finger—and gas responds instantly! Gas is ready to burn the instant it reaches your furnace. You get heat the moment you want it!

DEPENDABILITY with GAS

Regardless of the weather, your gas supply is steady, dependable. There are no bad weather delivery delays. Cold snaps don't catch you unprepared. Gas is right there, every day, every time you need it.

QUIET, CLEAN heat with GAS

Automatic gas is exceptionally quiet, important where the heating unit is on the same floor as your living quarters. And your home stays cleaner, has less dust and grime, requires less decorating.

Two Gifts Too Many

One of my buddies is to be married and I am to be an usher. My parents and I divided the cost of a handsome (and expensive) wedding present. Now do you think that, since I am in the bridal party, I should send another gift?

Louise

Louise Davis Answers: I can't imagine why you should or why you would even consider it. Two wedding gifts from the same person is quite unnecessary. If you had preferred, you could have purchased a gift just from you, but in that case you wouldn't have needed to go thirds or halves with your parents. It should be one thing or the other. The fact that you and your parents went together to get something made the gift all the handsomer and it was a very nice way of doing it. If your thought is one of generosity and friendship, you can give the couple something again for Christmas. As far as the wedding is concerned, one gift is enough and you have already given that. You should feel no further obligation.

Introducing Husband: When introducing my husband to people who know my last name, I always give just his first name. But how should I introduce him to someone who knew me when I was single but doesn't know my married name?

Louise Davis Answers: First names should be avoided.

ed during introductions. When introducing someone to your husband who doesn't know your married name, begin by addressing the other person and say, "Mr. Smith, I would like to have you meet my husband, Mr. Allen." Because a gentleman is always presented to the lady you would say, "Mrs. Smith, I would like to present my husband, Mr. Allen." Starting with the other person's name makes it simple, especially in solving a problem like yours.

If the picture from the picture window is always rather hazy, take a tip from the housewives in Holland. They keep their windows sparkling with a solution made by mixing one cup of cider vinegar and one-and-a-half gallons of hot water.

Vancouver Parties

Miss Betty Hemington whose marriage takes place June 20 to Mr. John Williams has been feted at many parties in Vancouver. Mrs. D. H. Williams, mother of the groom-to-be, honored Miss Hemington with a tea. Miss Shirla Harrop, who is to be bridesmaid, gave a shower in her honor. Miss Sandra Humber, Victoria, who is also attending the bride in the wedding, was among those present. Mrs. James Watts honored the bride-elect with a pantry shower and dinner party last week.

Baptized

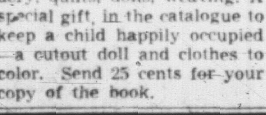

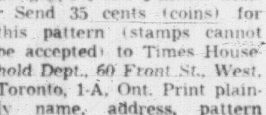

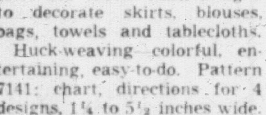

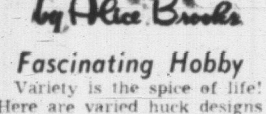

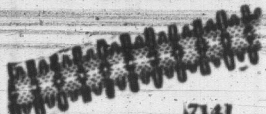

Here Grace were the names given the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hanning Sunday when she was baptized by Rev. Dr. F. E. H. James during the morning service at Metropolitan United Church. For the occasion she wore the lace heirloom gown of her great-great-grandmother. Following the ceremony a family dinner was held at the Tattersall Drive home of the baby's parents.

Family Here

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rust, 3120 Milgrove Street, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in early June, had all their family, one daughter and four sons, with them for the occasion. Daughter, Mrs. C. J. Saunders and her husband and daughter Myrna; son, Ken Rust and a granddaughter, Mrs. Peter Fluter and her son, all came from Saskatoon for the occasion. Mrs. Rust's sister, Mrs. J. McLellan and her daughter Lois were here from Hensall, Ont. The couple were married on June 2, 1909, in Winnipeg where they lived for some years. Mr. Rust was with the fire department in that city and later with Grand Trunk Railway until he retired. He and his wife came to Victoria four years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Rust held "open house" for friends at their home on the Sunday prior to the anniversary. A family dinner at Glen-shiel Hotel marked the golden wedding day.

At Wedding

Guests at the wedding of Miss Lorna J. Wingrove and Dr. Alan Sedgewick Richardson in Metropolitan United Church at Edmonton, Tuesday evening, were the groom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. S. R. Richardson, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Shipley, all of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. E. Hempton, Caracas, Venezuela, and Mr. Lyle Wingrove, Saskatoon.

WE'RE JUST BAGS OF FLUIDS

U.S. Professor Gets At Seat of Problem

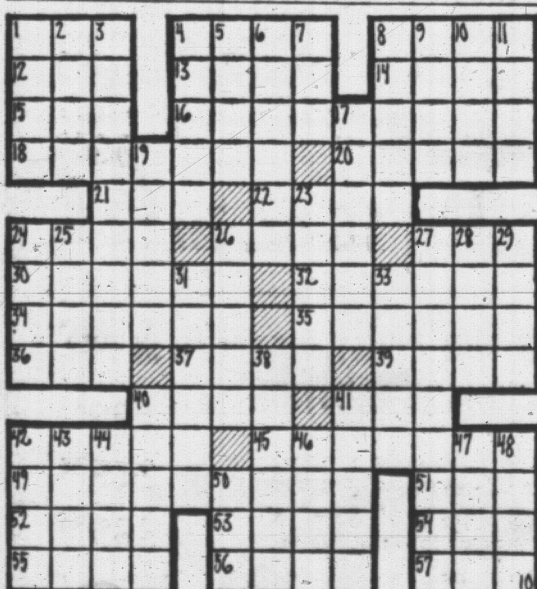

BY PAT MCNULTY
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Man is nothing more than a mobile bag of fluids.
And when this mobile bag sits down—which is most of the time for many of us—well, that's the seat of man's troubles.
"That's the opinion, anyway," of Dr. Laurence Morehouse, a professor who has developed a straight-backed, rotating rocking chair to help keep the fluids in motion.
Watching television, sitting in an office or driving a car can be just as dangerous as stalking lions in Africa, says Dr. Morehouse, director of the human performance laboratory of the University of California at Los Angeles.
When man sits for a prolonged period, says Dr. Morehouse, the blood and other fluids collect in the lower extremities. The result, he says, can be swollen feet, fatigue, drowsiness, fainting, thrombosis or even death.
TIGHT GIRDLES, TOO
And it's even more dangerous, he said, for the ladies who frequently sit for long periods wearing tight girdles.
Dr. Morehouse said that many auto accidents blamed on drivers' "blacking out" fatigue, dizziness or slowed co-ordination might very well be traced to impaired circulation.
A possible answer to the sitting-man's problems, says Dr. Morehouse, is a self-aligning seat padded with sponge rubber which has been developed at the UCLA lab. And this, he said, is why:
The chair supports the body's weight on the "seat bones" or tuberosities—"sit on your hands and you'll feel them," said Dr. Morehouse.
The chair's eight soft springs yield to the sitter's weight and are in constant, though barely noticeable, motion.
GIVES THESE TIPS
But since Dr. Morehouse's chair is not on the market, he offered these tips to chronic sitters:
Make certain your legs are uncrossed and that the edge of the chair or tight clothing don't cut off circulation.
On auto trips, stop as often as possible and take a short walk. If travelling by train, bus or plane, get up frequently and pace the aisle.
And if you're an office worker, put your feet up on the desk occasionally—even if you're not the boss.

Algerian Rebels Freed
ALGIERS (Reuters)—Algerian rebels Tuesday freed three prisoners, including a 19-year-old girl and a woman army nurse, military sources announced. The girl, Marie-Jose Serpo, was the only survivor of a motoring party of two girls and two youths ambushed near Constantine six weeks ago. The insurgents carried off Marie-Jose after killing her companions.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT
By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Nicky Hilton and his bride Trish are amused by the rumors of a split because they're hoping that his annulment from Elizabeth Taylor, which he's been attempting to get, is soon forthcoming so they can be married again—this time in the Catholic Church.

Funny thing happened to Bill Holden at the Embers. A mother came to his table and said, "Would you say hello to my little daughter, Nancy?" Bill said "Sure," and got up. Little Nancy was 5 feet 11. You know about cover girls. Jack Paar's now a cover boy. Next: Newsweek. Dody Goodman was overwhelmed when Jack embraced her on camera. Mickey Rooney and Jerry Bergen, both shorties, always reserve hotel rooms not above the fifth floor. Not that the rooms aren't just as good, but they can't reach above the fifth button on the elevator.

Van Cliburn may be using the "American romance" story to cover up the fact he's to be seeing ex-King Umberto's daughter, Mario Beatrice, in a few days in Portugal. ... Went down to No. 1 Fifth to see great French singer Yvonne Constant (from "La Plume") and enjoy comic Phil Leeds, who commented about "the way kids run out to play now." He said: "I know one New York kid who goes to Scranton to play. No wonder he's late for supper every night."

Tony Perkins got pneumonia evidently from becoming overheated while playing basketball at the New York Athletic Club getting ready for his movie role in "Tall Story"—and has been battling it at home with penicillin for a week. A rumor that he had collapsed while playing and been carried out on a stretcher was "not even remotely true," he said from his bed the other day.

Foxy Greta Garbo was asked for her autograph by a cab driver who said, "My wife would never believe you were in my cab if I didn't show her your autograph." Refusing, as she has always, Geegee said, "Oh, but if she is your wife, she should believe you."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other attractive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Cheryl McCrary, aged 11, Newtown Square, Penn., for her question:

Is Petrified Wood a Mineral?

The word mineral covers a multitude of things. Gold is a mineral and so is water. Every stone on the face of the earth is a mineral of some sort. A substance must have two qualities in order to be a mineral—it must be inorganic and it must be found in nature. The word inorganic is the opposite of organic and organic means anything living or any part of a plant or animal which once lived. So, a mineral is one-of-Nature's substances which is not part of a living organism and never was.

Petrified wood is wood which has turned to stone. Wood, of course, is not a mineral. On the other hand, stone most certainly is a mineral. This leaves us with quite a problem. So let's try some detective work and figure out the answer for ourselves.

The story begins millions of years ago, when massive trees grew in what is now the American western desert and prairie land. The climate was moist in those far-off days, damp enough to support huge forests. This friendly climate changed, perhaps suddenly in the northern regions and more slowly in the south. We know of at least one forest in the State of Washington that was burned and buried beneath volcanic ash.

To the south, in Arizona, there was at least one log jam where a gushing river carried away countless fallen trees. The river dried up and the fallen trees laid buried under the blowing sands. Here, and in the northern regions, were masses of buried lumber which normally should have decayed, broken up and returned its chemicals to the soil. But this did not happen, most likely because there were no decay bacteria in the soil.

Million-Year Process

Through millions of years the buried wood was first steeped in water and then dried out, time after time. This busy water dissolved and toted along all kinds of chemicals on its way through the ground. It went to work on dissolving the fallen trees and did so, particle by particle. But the water was so loaded with ground chemicals that for every particle of wood it toted away it had to leave behind a particle of its chemicals.

Bit by bit, through millions of years, the original wood was replaced by stone. The types of stone in petrified wood are usually silica. There is Jasper, onyx and glowing opal. Often these semi-precious stones are tinted with iron and other substances present in the soil. The colors of some petrified wood challenge the rainbow.

Under the microscope you can see the cell structure of the original wood. In replacing the wood with chemicals, fragment by fragment, the original design of the wood was copied. But none of this original wood remains. Petrified wood is made by Nature solely from non-living chemicals and is, therefore, a mineral.

TRANQUILLIZERS DANGEROUS

Misuse of Drugs Worries Experts

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal authorities are concerned about misuse of certain new drugs, such as tranquillizers, by doctors not fully acquainted with their effects.

The co-operation of drug manufacturers has been enlisted in a campaign to warn doctors — especially the over-worked general practitioner in outlying areas — about the dangers of improper use of tranquillizers and energy pills.

The whole family of these drugs, known to the experts as psychotics, is under careful scrutiny by federal experts.

Freedomite Girl Hunted

NELSON (CP) — RCMP said Tuesday they are conducting an all-out search for a 15-year-old girl missing from the provincial dormitory school at New Denver, B.C., since May 25.

Insp. E. S. W. Batty, head of the Nelson RCMP subdivision, said police "are determined to find this girl and bring her back into the custody of provincial welfare authorities."

Principal John Clark imposed a ban on visiting at the school last weekend. It will remain in effect until the girl, a Sons of Freedom Doukhobor, is returned.

PARK CAR OFF STREETS AT NIGHT, POLICE ASK

Victoria car owners are asked by police to park cars off streets at night wherever possible to help eliminate the rash of hit-and-run accidents which has plagued the department the past month.

Traffic Inspector Brooke Douglass said Wednesday there have been 14 cases of cars damaged since May 10 while parked overnight on streets.

Last year there were 164 such cases, and while police were successful in finding the culprit in many instances, however, they just didn't have sufficient clues to go on.

'Leftover' Manitoba Vote Today

WINNIPEG (CP) — Elections today in the northern provincial constituencies of Churchill and Rupertsland will bring the Manitoba legislature to its full strength of 57 members.

Voting in the ridings was deferred because of travel difficulties caused by spring breakup when the Manitoba general election was held May 14.

Of the 55 seats at stake last month, 34 were won by the Progressive Conservatives, 11 by the Liberal-Progressives and 10 by the CCF.

The Progressive Conservatives and the Liberal-Progressives are contesting both of the northern seats, while the CCF has named a candidate in Rupertsland. Both seats were represented by Conservatives in the last House.

Tax Appeal Brief Asked From Legion

DUNCAN — Canadian Legion branch here has been invited by city council to prepare a brief on its appeal for lower taxes.

According to the Legion executive, taxes on its property and club house went up $128 this year. Robert E. Evans, president, said the branch deserves help because it saves the city from $2,000 to $3,000 per year by granting aid to transients and disabled veterans.

North Cowichan council granted the Chemainus branch a 50 per cent tax reduction for five years, he said.

Rising taxes also are forcing the branch to reconsider its plans for construction of an auditorium beside its Trunk Road club house.

"If taxes increase at the rate they are going we couldn't maintain an auditorium if we built one," Mr. Evans said.

Eagles Lodge WA Installs Officers

DUNCAN — Mrs. C. Dyke was installed this week as president of the women's auxiliary to the Eagles Lodge here by Mrs. Esther Chalk, past president of the Victoria aerie auxiliary.

Mrs. Mary Hallan, also of Victoria, assisted at the installation, held with the Duncan auxiliary drill team in attendance. Team captain is Mrs. Beryl Mackie.

Others installed in office were Mrs. D. Cleough, past president; Mrs. K. Robinson, vice-president; Mrs. P. Davis, chaplain; Mrs. M. Harner, conductor; Mrs. M. Cross, secretary; Mrs. M. Eaton, treasurer; Mrs. D. Chandler, inside guard; Mrs. D. Dwyer, outside guard; Mrs. D. Beckensell, Mrs. J. Leroy and Mrs. N. Heyd, trustees.

George Handel, the great composer, who died in 1759, was a skilled performer on the organ, harpsichord and violin.

B.C. Assigns Fire Hall Lots to City

The provincial government Wednesday turned over two lots near Point Ellice to the city of Victoria for $15 for eventual use as a new fire hall site.

The lots, located on the southwest corner of John and Turner Streets, have been held in the name of the province for school purposes. Greater Victoria School Board held an unofficial option which now has been surrendered.

An order-in-council approved Wednesday transfers the property to the city for a nominal fee of $5 plus statutory land grant fee of $10.

A civic plan for shifting the present Burnside fire hall to the Point Ellice area, where it could give better protection to Victoria West, was proposed before closure of the main city fire hall on Cormorant Street last year and the construction of a new headquarters on Yates at Camosun.

City officials disagreed on whether the Point Ellice hall would be built in the near future.

One said: "It is a long-range plan based purely on speculation and a $15 investment."

But another said: "It may be nearer than you think."

LOOK LADY—NO COOKING! Delightful—delectable—delicious little cakes made so easily with Borden's EAGLE BRAND Sweetened Condensed Milk. No cooking to it—and so easy to make! Do try it!

Lemon Refrigerator Cakes:
1 1/2 cups (1 can) Borden's Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk—1 cup lemon juice—1 egg, grated lemon rind—about 27 Graham wafers—butter icing, or whipped cream.
Blend Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk, lemon juice and lemon rind until mixture thickens. Line a 9-inch square pan with wafer paper, then place 3 Graham wafers on the bottom, filling them closely together. Cover with half the lemon filling, making sure wafers remain in place. Repeat this layer of wafers and filling. Top with layer of wafers. Allow to ripen in 'frig 12 hours or more. To serve—unmold, cover with butter icing, cut in 16 inch squares. Makes 36 delicious petite cakes. For a glamorous dessert use whipped cream in place of butter icing and cut in larger squares.

Chemical Firm Studying Plant In Crofton Area

NANAIMO (CP) — Pennsalt Chemicals Corporation is expected to decide soon whether to build a $10,000,000 chemical plant in the Crofton area, about 30 miles south of here, or on the lower mainland.

One of the factors in its decision is said to be the cost of power. The British Columbia Electric Company is reported to have offered power on the lower mainland at a rate of four mills per kilowatt hour.

The government-owned B.C. Power Commission says the B.C. Electric figure is about two mills less than cost. It says it can provide power at Crofton at seven mills and will not cut rates to industrial customers at the expense of residential users.

Closer Atlantic Alliance Asked

NEW YORK (AP)—A plea for an Atlantic community based on the closest possible political co-operation, free trade and genuine collective defence was made here Tuesday night by Lester B. Pearson, leader of the Liberal opposition in the Canadian Commons.

He said that if such a community is not possible there is a danger of a "retreat to continentalism," of the Atlantic area being split into European and North American sectors. This would be an unhappy and perhaps dangerous development in western defence.

"... Those states which believe in our form of free democracy as something that must be preserved against the reactionary pressures of Communism, must surely recognize that this requires—especially in the Atlantic community—closer political and economic co-operation; some sacrifice of national sovereignty for international security."

Mr. Pearson was speaking at the 40th anniversary convocation of the new school for social research here, from which he received an honorary degree. Similar degrees were conferred on Mr. Justice Felix Frankfurter, Walter Lippman and Dr. Edith Bone of England.

Mr. Pearson said the United States must take the lead in the integration of the Atlantic community.

75 Fire-Hit Millmen Back On Job Monday

Some 75 men who lost their jobs when fire gutted a drying kiln at Smith Cedar Products Ltd., 651 Harbor, will go back to work Monday, a spokesman said today.

Operations at the waterfront shingle mill will then be "back to normal," he said.

Interior of the kiln was badly burned during the blaze believed to have been caused by overheating, and firemen had to chop into the heavy lumber forming the kiln to get the fire under control.

The building was a dog food manufacturing plant.

Archibald A. Marion, 1673 Richardson, who told police he was "blinded" at the approach of another car before an accident, was fined $250 and restricted to business driving only for six months when he was found guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday of impaired driving.

Marion's car swerved to the wrong side of Richmond and sheared off a power pole before coming to a stop in a private driveway near Ernest May 25, at 4:15 p.m.

He told Magistrate William Ostler he had two bottles of beer with him that day and drank nothing between then and the accident.

Winners of the weekly session of the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club on Tuesday were: Section A—1, Ida Druce and Bud Waddington; 2, Velma Acres and George Morgan; 3, Dora and Sam Duprau; 4, Roberta Watson and Pat Bishop; 5, Harry Parry, and George Marsden.

A blind West Saanich Indian was put on a suspended sentence for six months when he appeared in Sidney RCMP court Monday charged with obstructing a police officer.

John Paul Matheson, 51, said he did not remember an incident in which he tore a sleeve from Cpl. William Stanton's shirt as the policeman attended at a family dispute. Matheson said he had been drinking.

The accused was given consideration because of his blindness.

'WILD WATER BALLET'

Square Dancing Gets 'New Look'

By JAN SMITH

Don't look now but they're "jazzing up" the old art of square dancing.

In order to make the activity even more interesting than it was, clubs across the continent have added innovations that would be likely to cause any California Forty-Niner not just to smile, perhaps, when you say that, but to laugh out loud.

But that's what the most modern of the modern square dance clubs are doing.

The local Swirlaway Club recently demonstrated this interesting activity at Field's Pool Resort near Nanaimo.

Members completed their intricate turns, spins and loops with a relative degree of success to claim their "Aqua-Duck" badges, which some members claim proves their point that square dancing can be done anywhere—anywhere at all.

This wild kind of water-ballet is done in bathing suits, naturally, and the idea has caught on across B.C.

Another activity likely to cause an old-timer to turn over in Boot Hill qualifies those who do it for the "Idiot's Badge."

Briefly, it consists of gaily forming a square sometime after midnight and then phoning up the caller who, blissfully unaware of the situation, is sleeping quietly.

If he successfully calls a dance, all of them have qualified for the badge.

Just healthy, red-blooded North American fun—but it certainly separates the callers who have their heart in the game from the not-so-enthusiastic.

This is all official activity, too. The new innovations must be passed by the head organizations before the dances can become official.

There are other new fads, too, they say... but only a square dancer would understand.

More Money Needed to Lure U.S. Tourists

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is losing out in a highly competitive tourist market, the Canadian Tourist Association said Tuesday.

The country's big travel deficit of $192,000,000—Canadians spent that much more abroad last year than visitors spent here—has to be lowered by getting more visitors who stay longer and by encouraging Canadians to travel at home, an association brief said.

It was presented to the Commons mines committee, now studying operations of the Canadian government travel bureau.

The brief said that about $1,800,000,000 is spent by visitors in Canada and Canadians who travel inside the country.

But at the same time, the $309,000,000 spent in Canada last year by Americans, while the second highest on record, showed that Canada's slice of the American tourist spending still is declining.

URGE LOANS

The brief said Canadian tourist facilities have to be improved and it urged government-backed bank loans at reasonable interest rates.

It said tourist facilities personnel, waitresses, maids and the like need training and that the Canadian Tourist Association should be supported by federal assistance to provide that training.

The Canadian Travel Bureau should have much more money to spend than its current $2,400,000 budget. Less than $4,000,000 now is being spent by federal and provincial governments, transportation companies and other interested organizations in U.S. tourist advertising, it said.

Bureau offices in New York and Chicago should be extended to include Cleveland, San Francisco and Boston.

FEW TRAVEL CANADA

The brief, presented by association president James M. McAvity of Montreal and executive director John Fisher, said only 19 per cent of holidaying Canadians now go to another province.

Finally, said the brief, the government should start now to plan for Canada's 100th birthday celebrations in 1967.

ONTARIO HEAT WAVE CUTS DOWN ON VOTING

TORONTO (UPI) — Early balloting ranged from light to medium in the Ontario general election today with the leaders of the three major parties voting shortly after the polls opened at 9 a.m. EDT.

The heat wave that covered the entire province threatens to keep many, especially older persons, away from the polls.

$1M RESEARCH FUND

Canada's Gift To Queen Will Mend Children

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government's gift to the Queen on the occasion of her visit this summer will be establishment of a $1,000,000 fund for research into children's diseases, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

OUR PRESENT IS A SCROLL

Greater Victoria municipalities will give Queen Elizabeth an illuminated scroll of the address of welcome and loyalty she will receive at a civic ceremony in Beacon Hill Park July 17.

Possibility of a second gift to mark the occasion still is being discussed.

Meanwhile, Premier Bennett continues to keep the province's gift a secret—reportedly in an attempt to prevent any other province from duplicating the gift.

Terrific Explosion Rocks Boston

BOSTON (AP) — More than a score of persons were injured in a terrific explosion of undetermined origin in the elevated structure of the Boston Rapid Transit System near the North Railroad Station today.

The Metropolitan Transit Authority said no one was killed.

Shortly after the accident the Massachusetts General Hospital reported that 20 persons had been brought in and others were still coming.

Rescue apparatus was used to pull victims from the torn elevated structure.

The hospital reported that most of those brought in appeared to have been burned in the blast.

The North Station is the main terminal for the Boston and Maine Railroad. It is in one of the most heavily congested traffic and business sections.

The explosion occurred about 2 p.m. EDT.

It was believed that the explosion came during a welding operation on the elevated property.

Part of the elevated structure fell into the street.

Jim Troup, an employee of a drug store in the North Station, said the blast blew out windows along the causeway street side of the station and knocked merchandise from the store shelves. An explosion of undetermined origin wrecked sections of the drug store a few weeks ago.

Troup said it was impossible to get to the scene, about 50 feet from the drug store, as ambulances, fire apparatus and rescue equipment jammed the area.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Calm our spirits, O God. As we confront one who makes us angry, permit us to see through our anger the other person's need and hopes. Help us to understand one another and, where we can find no understanding, to be patient. Where patience must give way to action, let our action be held up to the light of Thy love. Amen.

'Man Without a Country' Pulled Hoax on Canada

Hanna Really Egypt Citizen

OTTAWA (CP) — Christian George Hanna — a man without a country who found a haven in Canada for 18½ months—pulled off one of the biggest hoaxes in the history of Canadian immigration, it was disclosed today.

The immigration department said that Hanna was not a stateless person, as he claimed, but a citizen of Egypt. His real name is Ahmed Aouad and he was born and spent most of his life in Alexandria.

Hanna arrived at Port Alberni, B.C., in December, 1956, as a stowaway aboard the Norwegian freighter Gudveig. He told a story of more than a year of lonely exile on the high seas and asked that he be permitted to make a life for himself in Canada.

Immigration authorities tried to check Hanna's identity but made no progress because they had no information as to his nationality.

MARRIAGE OFFERS

His bid to enter Canada was supported by thousands of Canadians after they heard his story of world wandering. He received free legal help, money, job offers and three Vancouver women offered to marry him if it would help his cause.

Finally he was allowed to remain, but later had several brushes with the law. He was convicted of intoxication in a public place in May of last year and then of committing an indecent act involving a 25-year-old Vancouver housewife.

On Oct. 22, 1958, Immigration Minister Fairclough ordered the deportation of the slight, swarthy laborer because he had failed to demonstrate that he wanted to become a good Canadian.

He was deported by air to Lebanon, but Lebanese authorities gave only a verbal agreement to accept him. Later Canadian authorities learned that he had been convicted of a criminal offence in Beirut and sentenced to two months in jail.

Canadian authorities were on pins and needles because Hanna had a Canadian certificate of identification granted to him in March, 1957, to enable him to live in Canada. Until this certificate was returned there was a possibility that Lebanon might send Hanna back to Canada.

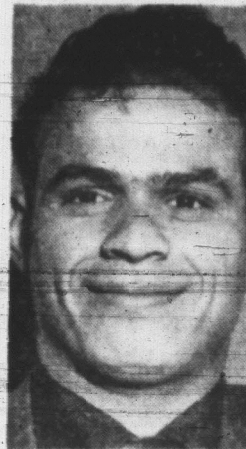

STOWAWAYS TOGETHER

While Hanna was in jail, police in Lebanon interviewed an Egyptian who had been deported from the United States. This Egyptian—now identified to Canadian authorities—said that he and Hanna had stowed away together on the Gudveig at Beirut.

The Egyptian eventually wound up in the U.S. under circumstances not known to Canadian officials. He told Beirut police Hanna's true identity and Hanna was deported from Lebanon to Egypt after his release from jail last March.

The research on the Hanna case was conducted by officials of the external affairs department in Beirut.

As a result of Hanna's deportation to Egypt, his Canadian certificate of identification has been returned to Ottawa. There now is no possibility of him being returned to Canada.

CCF IDEA

Road Link To Russia Suggested

OTTAWA (CP) — A linkup between Soviet and North American highways would be an excellent thing for international relations, CCF House Leader Hazen Argue suggested today.

He asked Gordon Robertson, deputy minister of northern affairs, whether any study has been made of Russian plans for a trans-Siberian highway and whether any thought has been given to building up Canada's road network to mesh with Russia. Cars then could drive to Asia via the Bering Strait route.

Mr. Robertson, questioned during a meeting of the Commons mines committee, said no Soviet trans-Siberian highway is known to exist and no such planning is known.

However, a few months ago a Soviet engineer had suggested linking North American and Russian railways by Bering Strait rail ferry service. But he doubted whether this is likely, at least in the foreseeable future.

Ship Founders, 8 Crew Saved

HALIFAX (CP) — Eight men took to lifeboats off the Newfoundland coast today when their 300-ton vessel began foundering in heavy seas. They were picked up by a ship waiting nearby.

The captain and seven crew members of the Quebec motor vessel Claudette V abandoned their vessel 40 miles south of Newfoundland at 5:26 a.m.

About 4½ hours earlier they asked for assistance after reporting the ship was foundering.

The Fauvette, chartered by Newfoundland Canada Steamships Limited for service between St. John's, Nfld., and here, went to the Claudette's aid.

4. The actual per capita debt of a Victoria resident is $244.83 not $173.51 as the premier states.

Mr. Strachan said he would appear on any platform with the premier... and bring him face to face with his own figures.

Plane Ready to Leave Herter Warns Gromyko

GENEVA (AP) — State

Secretary Herter today warned Andrei Gromyko that his plane stands ready to leave for the United States at four hours' notice unless Russia brings the Big Four conference back onto a reasonable negotiating basis, Western diplomats reported.

Herter had called upon Gromyko on behalf of the Western ministers. He told the Soviet foreign minister that he and his colleagues took a "serious view" of the development of the last few days.

Herter indicated that these developments are bound to have an adverse effect on the work of the conference.

The U.S., Britain and France are expected to issue a joint statement publicly expressing their concern over the turn which the conference has taken.

But there were reports that they have agreed to continue with the conference as long as possible.

Herter reported on his conversation immediately to Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Ambassador Wilhelm Grewe of West Germany.

Emerging from the meeting Couve de Murville told reporters: "The conference is continuing. We will see how it develops from day to day."

Herter made a supreme bid to save the talks from collapse in his "man to man" meeting with Gromyko.

He hurried over to the Russian's villa after a half-hour conference with the other western ministers.

The conference was brought to a standstill Wednesday when Russia unexpectedly set a new 12-month deadline for the West to get out of Berlin.

Western leaders expressed fears Russia was deliberately trying to wreck the talks.

They said it appeared likely that the foreign ministers' meetings might break up in disagreement within a few days unless the Russians revise their proposal drastically.

Under the barrage of Western criticism, however, Gromyko showed some signs Wednesday night of willingness to modify the new demand that the Western Allies get out of Berlin in a year.

He denied Western charges that the proposal is a take-it-or-leave-it ultimatum. Herter, however, told the foreign ministers at Wednesday's session that Western occupation rights were not granted by the Russians and "they are not rights which the Soviets can cancel, assign or modify."

Sources close to the Soviet delegation said Gromyko might fly to Moscow this week-end for consultations with Premier Khrushchev.

Jobless Act Amendments Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — Slow passage of Unemployment Insurance Act amendments through a Commons committee means they will not go into effect until Sept. 27, officials said today.

Original expectations had been to put them into effect June 28. The two dates mark the start of the third and fourth quarters of the unemployment insurance commission's year.

To get the changes into effect for the third quarter, the measure would have had to get final passage by Friday—an impossibility.

Financially, one informant said, the delay means that the depleted insurance fund—now at about $450,000,000—will lose out by about $25,000,000.

Provision of the bill is an increase averaging 30 per cent in employee-employer contributions to the fund.

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev refused in a Moscow Radio speech today to back down from the latest Soviet proposal to the Geneva talks.

Since in spite of Western charges the proposals were designed to wreck the talks.

OTTAWA (CP) — Publication or broadcast of any admission or confession by an accused person during a preliminary hearing would be made illegal by Criminal Code amendments proposed to Parliament today by the government.

The object of the proposed amendment, says an explanatory note in the bill introduced by Justice Minister Fulton, "is to avoid prejudice to the accused."

The bill provides a number of other important changes in Canada's criminal law including:

1. A definition of obscenity for legal purposes—"any publication a dominant characteristic of which is the undue exploitation of sex, or of sex and any one or more of the following subjects, namely, crime, horror, cruelty and violence, shall be deemed to be obscene."

2. Courts would be empowered to order seized and destroyed any obscene publication or crime comic.

3. It would be made a criminal offence to carry an imitation weapon for the purpose of committing a crime. Maximum penalty would be five years imprisonment.

The new provision on press coverage of preliminary hearings reads:

"Everyone who publishes in any newspaper, or broadcasts, a report that any admission or confession was tendered in evidence at a preliminary inquiry or a report of the nature of such admission or confession so tendered in evidence unless (a) the accused has been discharged or (b) if the accused has been committed for trial, the trial has ended, is guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction."

Socred 'Debt Bonfire' Fete Fraud, CCF Leader Charges

By PETE LOUDON

Premier Bennett's so-called bond-burning to celebrate B.C.'s debt-free status in August is "a delusion; a show, a hoax, and a cheap political fraud," CCF leader Robert Strachan said Wednesday evening.

Speaking to a CCF-sponsored public meeting at Oak Bay's Club Tango, attended by about 60, Mr. Strachan accused provincial government accounts and excerpts from the premier's own budget speeches to prove:

1. The direct debt of the province for school construction and toll highway and bridges subsidies is $93,536,046.

2. The provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway owes $110,000,000 and it is doubtful it will be able to pay up to $8,000,000 this year to avoid being a charge on the

Beach House Planned

Jaycees Allot Fair Proceeds

Work began today on drawing up the plans for a new, tree-shrouded $25,000 public beach house at Elk Lake, to be built by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce with funds from their May industrial and agricultural exhibition.

It will be ready in time for the late summer rush and provide services for a beach crowd of at least 1,000 sun-seekers.

Designed by city engineering department, the beach house 150 feet back from Hamsterley Beach will be a combined dressing room and comfort station, with sewage disposal facilities large enough for further expansion.

TO EXPRESS THANKS

City Engineer James Garnett described the building as "vandal-proof."

Nestling among Douglas fir and cottonwood, the 1,400 square foot beach house was decided on by Jaycees as "our thanks to the people of Victoria for their support of our May fair and other projects."

"We wanted to do something that would benefit a majority of Victorians," said Jaycee retiring president Ray Rawnsley. "This Elk Lake building is in line with our idea for a centennial project."

Project chairman is Ira Hill, who said today the new beach house will be a great improvement on present facilities at Hamsterley Beach.

PROJECTS DELAYED

Ald. M. H. Mooney, representing Victoria-Saanich beach and parks committee, which will administer the building, praised the Jaycees for their decision to undertake the beach house project.

However, the decision means other Jaycee projects originally planned for this year will now have to be postponed.

These include providing additional equipment for Jubilee Hospital and beautification of Douglas Street from the Roundabout to Tolmie, to embrace boulevards, new trees and better lighting.

Meanwhile this Elk Lake improvement is our way of showing our appreciation to Victorians who have been behind us in all our recent projects," said Jaycee president-elect Peter Forward. "We know they will like it."

The new building will be put up near the present dilapidated comfort station, which will be dismantled.

SHARON KIRK
... Royal command

City Dancer To Perform For Queen

Sharon Kirk, 16-year-old Victoria ballet dancer, will give a command performance before the Queen and Prince Philip in Winnipeg on July 24.

She has been invited to appear with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet in a special program planned for the royal visit and will begin rehearsing with the company July 1.

The feature performance will be the ballet "Finishing School" which is set to music by Strauss.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorraine Kirk of 2527 Nottingham, Sharon attended Oak Bay High School as usual this morning although she was greatly excited by the news.

"Dancing is her whole life and she intends to make a career of it," her mother told The Times. "She will be rehearsing in Winnipeg for nearly four weeks before the command performance."

Born in Edmonton, Sharon has been dancing since she was four years old and is a pupil of Victoria teacher Wynne Shaw.

She has already won several honors. At the Spokane Music Festival last May she received the Young Choreographers Award. At the B.C. Dance Festival in Vancouver she was selected as the Most Promising Dancer of the year.

Last year she was awarded an IODE scholarship at Summer School in Vancouver.

Sharon is also a student of the piano but devotes most of her spare time to ballet.

"Later she hopes to go to Europe to train in some of the leading ballet centres there," her mother said.

10 Doctors From Victoria Off to U.K.

Attending the joint Canadian and British Medical convention in Edinburgh June 18 will be at least 10 Victoria doctors.

Headed by B.C. Medical Association president, Dr. Jack F. Tysoe of Victoria, most will leave Vancouver Saturday by plane with over 80 other physicians and wives from all over the province.

The group will travel in a specially chartered plane over the Pole to Amsterdam and a further flight will be held June 16.

Purpose of the convention, a B.C. society official said, "is to give Canadian and British doctors the opportunity to keep abreast of new scientific developments in the field of medicine."

Among those attending from Victoria will be: Doctors Vincent W. Smith, Jack N. Edmonson, Gavin Chisholm, Simon Marinker, A. N. Reid, H. Maitland Young, R. A. Gale and J. F. B. Cupples.

The first group will return July 27 following the end of business but the second group will holiday in Europe until August 24.

Prize-Giving Today

Winning groups that participated in the May 24 weekend parade were to receive their prizes today in city council chamber from Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of the Greater Victoria celebrations association.

5 Hit by Poison Oak Full-Scale Probe On

3-Leaved Plant Causing Trouble

Victoria parks superintendent W. H. Warren will launch a full-scale investigation into a suspected revival of poison oak, believed the cause of the sufferings of five Victorians.

All had had contact with the Mount Douglas area recently.

Sandra Cameron, 1504 Mount Douglas Cross Road, a T. Eaton Co. employee, is home from work with her face swollen and eyes nearly closed. She and a friend, Lauren Bennett, Martha Crescent, feel they may have touched the plant while going down to the beach at Mount Douglas.

Miss Bennett also suffered itches and swelling, but not as severely as Miss Cameron.

NECK BLISTERED

Mrs. L. A. Bradley, 4235 Cedar Hill Road, reported her three-year-old son has blisters at his hairline and on his neck, apparently as a result of playing in the bush near her Mount Douglas district home.

An unidentified woman reported to provincial authorities that her two children were stung by what her doctor described as poison ivy.

Dr. Adam Szczawinski, provincial museum botanist, suggested poison oak not in evidence here since 1920, might have returned to the district, he discounted the report that poison ivy had caused some suffering, since it does not grow here.

EFFECTS VARY

He said, though, that signs and symptoms are similar, and that effects will vary in severity between sufferers.

Mr. Warren, who has jurisdiction over Mount Douglas Park, said he will contact all the reported victims in his effort to locate the cause of the trouble.

According to Dr. Szczawinski, a simple rule to follow where poison oak is suspected is—"leaves in three, let it be!"

JUNE 24 SET FOR LIBERAL NOMINATION

Liberals will meet at View Royal Hall June 24 to choose a candidate for Esquimalt Riding in the next provincial convention.

George Whittaker made the announcement at Cobble Hill during a meeting to hear new Liberal leader Ray Perrault.

Mr. Whittaker, businessman, former Cowichan school trustee, and Esquimalt candidate in the latest election, said he will seek the nomination once more. No other names have been put forward to date.

Judge Urges Barber Course For Prisoner

Kenneth William Cooper, 3486 Short, received two concurrent six-month jail sentences when he appeared in two local police courts, Wednesday and Tuesday, in connection with the theft of a TV set and radio-record combination.

The items were obtained from Butler Bros. Supplies, Ltd., on approval, and were sold by Cooper to Maynard's Auctioneers.

Magistrate William Ostler sentenced Cooper in Saanich court Tuesday for the theft from Butler Bros., and then gave him a concurrent sentence Wednesday in city police court on charges of obtaining money by false pretences from Maynard's.

BAD RECORD

"I'm not satisfied you did this without intent to defraud," said Magistrate Ostler Tuesday.

He noted that Cooper had a poor work record, had drifted about and had a criminal record.

In view of the man's family responsibilities the magistrate recommended he seek to go to Haney correctional institute where he could learn barbering for a job when released.

B.C.'s New Labor Laws Sparked By Bosses, CLC Officer Claims

New B.C. labor legislation, Bill 43, is the brain-child of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, not the provincial government, a top Canadian Labor Congress official said in Victoria today.

"For Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to claim it as his own legislation is just pure malarkey," said George Home, director of political education for the CLC.

24 hours after contact, thus making the plant hard to locate.

At one time it grew in Victoria, on the Saanich Peninsula and in the Gulf Islands, but there has not been a report of it since 1920, and it was believed extinct here.

Poison oak may be a straggly, erect shrub or more commonly a stout climber. Leaves are grouped in threes. They are roughly round in outline, but sometimes irregularly lobed or toothed, often slightly resembling an oak leaf. Leaves are glossy and leathery.

There are greenish white berries, in season.

Victims of stings should wash affected parts with a soap solution and seek medical treatment.

Any contact with poison oak should be reported to the provincial authorities.

Last Tribute Set Saturday For Veteran

Funeral services for former British Army Regimental Sergeant-Major, twice decorated Duncan Stuart, 365 Arnold, will be held Saturday.

The 88-year-old man, who served in the King's Own Scottish Borderers for 21 years, died Wednesday at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Holder of the Military Cross and the Military Medal his service posts included West Africa, Jamaica and Bermuda.

After retiring from the army he joined the Canadian Pacific Railroad police force in Calgary then moved to Victoria in 1938.

He was a life member of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans' Association and a member of the Red Chevron Association.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. at McCall's Funeral Chapel followed by cremation.

UN Group Elects New Officers

Elected president of the Victoria branch, United Nations Association in Canada, at their recent annual general meeting was Dr. A. E. Chatwin, 2560 Esplanade.

Other officers elected were: Erica van Engel and Norman Senior, vice-presidents; G. H. Thornberry, secretary; William Tupolime, treasurer.

Members of the executive are: Anne Burgess, Mary Crummy, Ann Eaton, Jessica Fleming, Mrs. W. L. McLean, Richard Broughton, John Slidaway, J. H. Ford, and Ethel Bruce.

Past president is Mrs. Renee Archibald.

SAMPLE OF POISON OAK held by UBC Botany student Suzy Taylor of Vancouver, who works at Provincial Museum here, still contains poisonous qualities. Botanist, Dr. Adam Szczawinski, was infected while mounting the specimen, got rash around mouth and blistered fingers, yet foliage was picked over 40 years ago. The poison is an oil which is reported to be able to penetrate even leather shoes and can be carried in soot particles from land-clearing fires. (Times Photo.)

RCN Oregon Flap Starts 2 Probes

Two investigations are underway today as the "good-will" visit of six RCN destroyer escorts to Portland, Ore., boils over into an international incident.

The U.S. Coast Guard and RCN Pacific Command here both said they are making a full investigation into charges of damage to dikes and other property caused Tuesday by the Second Canadian Escort Squadron sailing up the flooding Willamette and Columbia Rivers.

An RCN spokesman said no comment could be made until more details were known. The ships are visiting Portland in connection with the city's famous Rose Festival.

Fishermen and farmers have threatened to file suits for damage which they said was caused by huge waves in the wake of the ships, led by HMCS Assiniboine.

The corps of engineers said waves had torn out all but 300 feet of a 2,600-foot-long revetment on Saucies Island, north of Portland.

Bank fishermen said 12-foot waves from the Canadian destroyer escorts completely washed over two fishermen.

Captain J. C. Pratt, who commanded the Canadian ships, expressed regret for the damage but denied any blame. He said there was a Columbia River pilot aboard every ship and "we stuck to the speeds they dictated to us."

VISITOR OPTIMISTIC

U.S. Unemployment Figures 'Misleading'

There is little evidence of unemployment in the United States at the present time, says Dudley S. Bates regional vice-president of the New York Life Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

"Our newspapers are simply bulging with Help Wanted advertisements," he said. "The Los Angeles Examiner recently carried 15 pages of them in one day."

Mr. Bates said government statistics showing unemployment in the U.S. are "misleading."

"Too many people registering as unemployed are looking for easier employment or have no particular desire to work at all. Many are just changing jobs."

Mr. Bates said there is considerable industrial expansion

across the United States and "a growing feeling of optimism in business circles."

He added that the New York Life Insurance Co. sold more insurance in April and May last year than in any two months in its history.

"Our business during those months was up 5 per cent on that of April and May last year."

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me to whom to write to find out what prison a member of my family is detained at here in Canada?—J.V.

A. If your relative is in a federal penitentiary for a sentence of two years or more, write the Commissioner of Penitentiaries, Justice Department, Ottawa, Ont. for information. If, however, he is in a provincial jail for less than two years, you would have to write each provincial attorney general's department with your query.

Q. Where do I write to get a pen pal who lives in Texas or Colorado?—M.W.

A. Write a letter to the Editor, San Antonio News, San Antonio, Texas, or to the Editor, Denver Post, Denver, Col., and ask them if they will run your request for pen pal in the newspaper.

Q. Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published freely.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve controversies or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Ten-year-old Wolfgang Bradasch relapsed into "poor" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today with first and second degree burns covering more than 75 per cent of his body.

The boy was admitted in poor condition after suffering burns in a gasoline fire at his rural Saanich home Sunday, but was reported "improved" Wednesday after a good night.

Fine of $250 was levied in city police court today on Edward Ball, 896 Falaise, after he pleaded guilty to an impaired driving charge.

Offence occurred late Wednesday on Humboldt Street.

A bylaw authorizing the Ross Bay cemetery committee to remove or relocate dilapidated headstones and curbs at untended graves in the cemetery was to be introduced in city council today as part of the committee's recent campaign to eliminate untidy areas.

TIDE-WASHED SKELETON FALSE ALARM

Part of a weather-beaten skeleton found on Klover Beach caused a flutter of excitement in Esquimalt today.

A citizen called Esquimalt police to say they thought the bones looked human and a constable hurried over to have a look.

The verdict: goat or deer carcass, possibly, but not human.

Police were to get a positive identification by zoologist Dr. Clifford Carl of the Provincial Museum.

Three persons were treated for minor injuries in St. Joseph's Hospital shortly after midnight when the car in which they were riding was in collision with a BCE bus at Pandora and Government.

They were Beatrice McNaughton, 22, of 3245 Carman; Constance Smith, 23, of 1054 Princess; and Jack Pulyk, 27, of 723 Yates.

The bus was driven by William Hele, 735 Kings. There were no passengers aboard.

Climax of a years-long battle for wide-open gasoline station hours was to arrive today when city council introduces a bylaw removing restrictions. A petition of some 48 station owners, believed to be a majority of city operators, requested elimination of the present 6 p.m. closing requirement.

The Bishop of Southwell, England, Rt. Rev. Frank Barry and Mrs. Barry, were guests of Archbishop Harold Sexton and Mrs. Sexton at lunch today.

The bishop is now on a lecture tour of Australia, New Zealand and Canada. He spoke in Vancouver last Monday and has a number of speaking engagements in Toronto. He is holidaying here.

An excursion to Vancouver will be held by members of the Old Age Pensioners' Association No. 1 June 17.

Members will meet at 7:30 a.m. outside the Knights of Pythias Hall to board buses.

A meeting of the Lions Club of Victoria will be held at 12 noon Friday in the Empress Hotel.

CUTS DOWN ON VOTING

TORONTO (UPI) — Early balloting ranged from light to medium in the Ontario general election today, with the leaders of the three major parties voting shortly after the polls opened at 9 a.m. EDT.

Harvey MacLaren, a 70-year-old Parkdale returning officer, was found dead of a heart attack early today at home. Friends blamed his death on the heat and over-excitement.

Plane Ready to Leave
Herter Warns Gromyko

GENEVA (AP) — State Secretary Herter today warned Andrei Gromyko that his plane stands ready to leave for the United States at four hours' notice unless Russia brings the Big Four conference back onto a reasonable negotiating basis, Western diplomats reported.

Herter had called upon Gromyko on behalf of the Western ministers. He told the Soviet foreign minister that he and his colleagues took a "serious view" of the development of the last few days. Herter indicated that these developments are bound to have an adverse effect on the work of the conference.

The U.S., Britain and France are expected to issue a joint statement publicly expressing their concern over the turn which the conference has taken.

But there were reports that they have agreed to continue with the conference as long as possible.

Herter reported on his conversation immediately to Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France and Ambassador Wilhelm Grewe of West Germany.

Emerging from the meeting Couve de Murville told reporters:

"The conference is continuing. We will see how it develops from day to day."

Herter made a supreme bid to save the talks from collapse in his "man to man" meeting with Gromyko.

He hurried over to the Russian's villa after a half-hour conference with the other western ministers.

The conference was brought to a standstill Wednesday when Russia unexpectedly set a new 12-month deadline for the West to get out of Berlin.

Western leaders expressed fears Russia was deliberately trying to wreck the talks.

They said it appeared likely that the foreign ministers' meetings might break up in disagreement within a few days unless the Russians revise their proposal drastically.

Under the barrage of Western criticism, however, Gromyko showed some signs Wednesday night of willingness to modify the new demand that the Western Allies get out of Berlin in a year.

He denied Western charges that the proposal is a take-it-or-leave-it ultimatum. Herter, however, told the foreign ministers at Wednesday's session that Western occupation rights were not granted by the Russians and "they are not rights which the Soviets can cancel, assign or modify."

HALIFAX (CP) — Eight men took to lifeboats off the Newfoundland coast today when their 300-ton vessel began foundering in heavy seas. They were picked up by a ship waiting nearby.

The captain and seven crew members of the Quebec motor vessel Claudette V abandoned their vessel 40 miles south of Newfoundland at 5:26 a.m.

About 4½ hours earlier they asked for assistance after reporting the ship was foundering.

Haven in Canada
For 18½ Months

OTTAWA (CP) — Christian George Hanna — a man without a country who found a haven in Canada for 18½ months—pulled off one of the biggest hoaxes in the history of Canadian immigration, it was disclosed today.

The immigration department said that Hanna was not a stateless person, as he claimed, but a citizen of Egypt. His real name is Ahmed Aouad and he was born and spent most of his life in Alexandria.

Hanna arrived at Port Alberni, B.C., in December, 1956, as a stowaway aboard the Norwegian freighter Gudveig. He told a story of more than a year of lonely exile on the high seas and asked that he be permitted to make a life for himself in Canada.

Immigration authorities tried to check Hanna's identity but made no progress because they had no information as to his nationality.

His bid to enter Canada was supported by thousands of Canadians after they heard his story of world wandering. He received free legal help, money, job offers and three Vancouver women offered to marry him if it would help his cause.

Finally he was allowed to remain, but later had several brushes with the law. He was convicted of intoxication in a public place in May of last year and then of committing an indecent act involving a 25-year-old Vancouver housewife.

On Oct. 22, 1958, Immigration Minister Fairclough ordered the deportation of the slight, swarthy laborer because he had failed to demonstrate that he wanted to become a good Canadian.

He was deported by air to Lebanon, but Lebanese authorities gave only a verbal agreement to accept him. Later Canadian authorities learned that he had been convicted of a criminal offence in Beirut and sentenced to two months in jail.

Canadian authorities were on pins and needles because Hanna had a Canadian certificate of identification granted to him in March, 1957, to enable him to live in Canada. Until this certificate was returned there was a possibility that Lebanon might send Hanna back to Canada.

While Hanna was in jail, police in Lebanon interviewed an Egyptian who had been deported from the United States. This Egyptian—not identified to Canadian authorities—said that he and Hanna had stowed away together on the Gudveig at Beirut.

On Confessions

OTTAWA (CP) — Publication or broadcast of any admission or confession by an accused person during a preliminary hearing would be made illegal by Criminal Code amendments proposed to Parliament today by the government.

The object of the proposed amendment, says an explanatory note in the bill introduced by Justice Minister Fulton, "is to avoid prejudice to the accused."

The bill provides a number of other important changes in Canada's criminal law including:

1. A definition of obscenity for legal purposes—"any publication of a dominant characteristic of which is the undue exploitation of sex, or of sex and any one or more of the following subjects, namely, crime, horror, cruelty and violence, shall be deemed to be obscene."

2. Courts would be empowered to order seized and destroyed any obscene publication or crime comic.

3. It would be made a criminal offence to carry an imitation weapon for the purpose of committing a crime. Maximum penalty would be five years imprisonment.

The new provision on press coverage of preliminary hearings reads:

"Everyone who publishes in any newspaper, or broadcasts, a report that any admission or confession was tendered in evidence at a preliminary inquiry or a report of the nature of such admission or confession so tendered in evidence unless (a) the accused has been discharged or (b) if the accused has been committed for trial, the trial has ended, is guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction."

Mr. Strachan said he would appear on any platform with the premier, and bring him face to face with his own figures.

He said, "The figures I have given, the premier's own figures, dug out of their hiding place, demonstrate the complete unworthiness of any government that would indulge in this sort of double dealing and double talk."

The premier's claim is an absolute misrepresentation, completely false.

Sacred 'Debt Bonfire' Fete Fraud, CCF Leader Charges

By PETE LOUDON

Premier Bennett's so-called bond burning to celebrate B.C.'s debt-free status in August is "a delusion, a show, a hoax, and a cheap political fraud," CCF leader Robert Strachan said Wednesday evening.

Speaking to a CCF-sponsored public meeting at Oak Bay's Club Tango, attended by about 60, Mr. Strachan used provincial government accounts and excerpts from the premier's own budget speeches to prove:

1. The direct debt of the states.

2. The provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway owes $110,000,000 and it is doubtful it will be able to pay up to $8,000,000 this year to avoid being a charge on the general revenues of the province.

3. The total debt of the municipalities of B.C. has increased from $174,572,339 to $263,033,294 since 1952.

4. The actual per capita debt of a Victoria resident is $244.83 not $17.51 as the premier province for school construction and toll highway and bridges subsidies is $93,536,046.

Mr. Strachan said he would appear on any platform with the premier, and bring him face to face with his own figures.

Farmer Killed By Falling Tree

A 62-year-old Otter Point farmer died en route to hospital after he was struck down by a massive alder while clearing land alone Wednesday evening.

Frederick Harvey Young was pronounced dead on arrival at Jubilee Hospital after a 30-minute dash by West Coast Ambulance from Young's farm about five miles west of Sooke.

It appeared he was struck by the tree's heavy butt which snapped away from the stump as it was being cut.

Young was found by his wife Elizabeth and stepson David W. Stillman, who went looking for him when he failed to answer a call to supper about 5:30 p.m.

AT TREE FOOT
He lay, still conscious, across a tangle of broken branches at the foot of the broken alder. Neighbor Louis Wymen, who lives across Otter Point Road from the Young house, said Stillman ran to him for help and to call the ambulance. Wymen grabbed a stretcher from his barn and ran with him to the accident scene, about a quarter mile in thick brush back of the Young house.

Although still conscious, Young was in pain, complaining of sore ribs, Wymen said. Mrs. Young and the two men eased the injured man onto the stretcher while waiting for the ambulance and volunteer firemen.

The rescuers carried the farmer out of the woods and through an uneven meadow cleared by Young to reach the ambulance.

POLICE ESCORT
Young was given semi-conscious according to Sooke fire chief William Stephenson.

Firemen used a truck as an improvised ambulance because a new ambulance recently paid for by public subscription has not yet arrived.

City police escorted the truck along Douglas to the hospital because it had no alarm-sounding siren.

Sooke RCMP said Coroner Dr. E. C. Hagt probably would conduct an informal inquiry into the fatality.

Police said Mrs. Young was busy with supper at 5:20 and she heard her husband's power saw cutting a tree. When the sound stopped about 5:40 she went out and called her husband, who did not answer.

It was then Mrs. Young and David went to see what had happened.

CLEARING LAND
Young was in the midst of building a new house higher up the hill from his old log cabin and was still clearing his farm land out of the heavy undergrowth.

The Wymens are the closest neighbors in the remote area where even nearby houses are

UNIFORM POSTAL RATE ASKED FOR PENINSULA

Prospect Lake and District Community Association, fed up with penny-pinching Victoria firms, has asked Ottawa to establish a uniform postage rate for the entire Saanich peninsula.

Rural residents have to pay two cents—one cent due and one cent penalty—when Victoria letters are delivered to them with only a four-cent stamp. An association spokesman said that at times up to 75 postage-due letters have been delivered in a single day to district residents.

U.S. Budgets For Defence Of Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — There is an item in the United States defence budget called "Canadian air defence."

The amount requested from Congress for this purpose in the U.S. fiscal year that begins July 1 is $182,400,000, of which $21,400,000 is for actual expenditures and $161,000,000 for spending authority on equipment for which contracts have not yet been placed.

The figure of $182,400,000 compares with an amount of some $230,000,000 included in the 1959-60 Canadian defence budget for Canadian air defence.

Congress has not yet approved the U.S. defence budget but has given no indication it will cut the amount for Canadian air defence. The Canadian defence budget, totalling $1,695,000,000 overall, has not yet been approved by Parliament.

The American amount for Canadian air defence—almost 80 per cent of the Canadian figure for that purpose—represents part of the U.S. share for new installations in Canada.

These include two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile units, the SAGE electronic control unit for the Bomarc stations and at least seven new radar stations. This program has been estimated to cost a total of $375,000,000 of which the U.S. will pay $230,000,000 and Canada $125,000,000.

CCF IDEA

Road Link To Russia Suggested

OTTAWA (CP) — A linkup between Soviet and North American highways would be an excellent thing for international relations, CCF House Leader Hazen Argue suggested today.

He asked Gordon Robertson, deputy minister of northern affairs, whether any study has been made of Russian plans for a trans-Siberian highway and whether any thought has been given to building up Canada's road network to mesh with Russia. Cars then could drive to Asia via the Bering Strait route.

Mr. Robertson, questioned during a meeting of the Commons mines committee, said no Soviet trans-Siberian highway is known to exist and no such planning is known.

However, a few months ago a Soviet engineer had suggested linking North American and Russian railways by Bering Strait rail ferry service. But he doubted whether this is likely, at least in the foreseeable future.

As a result, the Canadian government had suggested that instead of some other gift to mark her visit, beginning in a week, it would establish a fund "to provide new hopes for Canadian children."

Opposition Leader Pearson described the gift as "most imaginative and constructive."

"I am sure that the Queen will get a great deal more satisfaction in this than in an other mink coat or piece of jewelry," he said.

Children in the future would have cause to remember the Queen's visit with even greater joy.

Mr. Pearson suggested that individuals might want to contribute to the fund as well as provinces and municipalities.

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, said Canadians will welcome and support the prime minister's most appropriate announcement.

He was sure the Queen would get a great deal of personal satisfaction from the fund which would increase the hope and happiness of crippled children.

The Women's Auxiliary to Cowichan Volunteer Fire Brigade will stage a fund-raising fashion show here this evening.

The showing of the latest in sportswear and British woolens will be staged in front of Peck's store, commencing at 8 p.m.

Commentator will be Mrs. M. Hayes. Models will be Miss L. Peck, Miss N. Levers, Mrs. E. Horton, Mrs. M. Campbell, Mrs. J. Angus, Mrs. M. Rick-ett, Miss Anne Wilson and Mrs. J. Sankey.

There will be a silver collection and refreshments will be provided by Mrs. I. Gillis and her committee.

All proceeds from the event will go toward the W.A.'s fund to purchase a front end pump for the fire brigade's truck.

In the past four years, the energetic W.A. has raised a considerable amount of money for various fire department projects.

In conjunction with the fashion show, W.A. president Mrs. A. M. Johnston will present a gift of appreciation to Mrs. L. Dougan, W.A. president for the previous two years.
